Car Liability Bloc Holds, Dewey Sticks on Transits

Governor's Measure Is Dead on Permitting Public Housing for More Small Families

Albany, March 21 (AP)—The GOP-dominated 1953 Legislature rolled into its final hours today with a stubborn Republican bloc openly defying Gov. Dewey in his personal drive for compulsory automobile liability insurance.

The insurance bill remained locked in committee despite Dewey's charge that a "rich and ruthless lobby" was trying to scuttle it for selfish reasons. There was strong doubt the measure would reach a floor vote.

But the Assembly Rules Committee assured a showdown on two other hot issues. The group approved the Ostrander amendment to ban flood-control dams in the forest preserve and the Gordon bill for a $50,000 study of the state's adultery-only divorce law.

Will Stop Clocks
Final adjournment in both houses was set for 2 p. m., but the lawmakers were expected to stop the clocks and grind out legislation well into the night.

The last few hours may show whether Dewey can maintain his strong control of former years over GOP majorities in the Senate and Assembly. Until the final day, much of his legislative program faced an uncertain fate.

In other major developments amid the hurly-burly of closing day:
1. Lawmakers were handed a supplemental budget totaling $16,614,477, which would boost the state's appropriations for the fiscal year beginning April 1 to $1,088,946,068. This is only $3,814,819 short of the current year's record total of $1,092,887.

Bill on Suspensions
2. The Senate sent Dewey a bill that would require suspension of any non-elected public official indicted on charges connection with his official duties. The measure stemmed from a grand jury probe of gambling in Erie county and Buffalo.

3. Assembly Republicans ignored solid Democratic protests and sent the governor his plan to force localities to take over the state's four temporary technical institutes as community colleges, or lose them. The units are situated in White Plains, Utica, Binghamton and Buffalo.

Move to Stop Waste
4. The larger House also beat down the Democrats again to give final clearance to the administration's revision of the welfare-aid program for localities. The system, would boost state aid by $6,400,000, is designed to help local officials clamp down on wasteful practices in welfare administration.

5. The Senate received from the Assembly a series of bills designed to help authorities rid newsstands of lurid comic and pocket-sized books, and keep them out of the hands of children. One measure would ban pocket books "devoted to the portrayal of sex or lust" in a matter that might incite depraved or immoral acts. The other combats comic books "devoted to the publication and exploitation of fiction, deeds of immorality" that might influence minors.

Would Help Sales
6. The Legislature sent Dewey several measures to ease present bars against commercial sales on Sunday. The bills would permit Sunday sales of magazines, and the sale and delivery by grocers of cooked and prepared foods from 4 to 7:30 p. m. Under present law, this privilege is reserved to delicatessens and bakeries. Another provision of the new bills would prohibit merchants from taking telephone orders on Sunday for items not legally sold on the Sabbath.

Kill Measure on Housing
7. The Assembly killed Dewey-sponsored legislation that would have permitted more small families with low incomes to obtain quarters in public housing projects. Assemblymen balked at a

Civil Defense Called 15 Per Cent Prepared

New York, March 20 (AP)—The nation's civil defense is currently only about 15 per cent prepared to cope with an air attack, says the executive assistant civil defense administrator.

But the official, Col. Justice Chambers, adds that "a lot of progress has been made and I think that within the next six months we may be up to 50 per cent."

Chambers spoke last night on a recorded Community Broadcast System program, "Bomb Target, U.S.A." He said civil defense worker enrollment has climbed from one and a half million to four million in the past year.

Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, also spoke, saying: "The Soviet Union now has nearly 1,000 bombers that on one-way trips can reach all important targets within the U. S. from bases behind the Iron Curtain."

Probation Office Collects $70,895.06 In Family Support

Ulster County Department Saves Taxpayers From Excessive Relief Spending

During 1952 an all time high collection of monies was made through the Ulster County Probation Office, the annual report for 1952 by Chief Probation Officer Edmund U. Burhans shows.

A total of $75,191.81 was received of which $777.25 was for restitution, $70,895.06 was for family support and $3,519.50 was paid by parents for physically handicapped children.

The large amount received for family support, had it not been for the probation department, would probably have necessarily been distributed through the County Welfare Department in the form of public assistance. Much of this money is paid to families because of family separations.

Record Cited
In 1940, the last year of part time probation service, the amount collected was $14,729.23. In 1941, the first year of full time probation service, the amount collected was $3,809.99. In 1951 the sum of $52,055.63 was collected.

In his annual report made to County Judge John M. Cashin, judge of the Children's Court, and which was filed with the board of supervisors on Tuesday evening, Chief Probation Officer Burhans extends his appreciation to the sheriff's office and staff, city and state police departments, Department of Public Welfare, the clergy of all faiths, Catholic Charities, the city and county school officials and the State Department of Correction, Division of Probation, for their "active and intelligent cooperation" with his department throughout the year.

During 1952 probation was revoked for three male adults, two of them were committed to the Reception Center at Elmira, and one was committed to the county jail.

Handles 113 Cases
During 1952 there was a total of 113 on probation of which 71 were continued from 1951 and 42 were received on probation in 1952. Of this number on probation during the year 65 were males and 2 females who were charged with misdemeanors and 44 males and two females were charged with felonies. During the year 55 passed from probation and five cases were transferred to other courts and at the end of 1952 there remained on probation 53.

Offenses in probation cases received during 1952 were:
Assault, third degree, 4 males. Petit larceny, 1 female. Unlawful entry, 3 males. Youthful offenders, 14 males. Other misdemeanors 5. Abandonment, 1 male. Burglary, 3 males. Assault, 1 male. Grand larceny, 7 males and 1 female. Other felonies including bigamy and an officer accepting a bribe 2.

During the year probation was revoked in the cases of three boys and they were all committed to the State Agricultural and Industrial School at Industry, N. Y.

Children's Cases
The Children's Court case load continued from 1951 was 50. During 1952 29 were received, one from transfer, making a total of 79. Twenty-seven passed from probation and one was transferred to another court, leaving 51 still on probation on December 31, 1952. Of these 36 were boys and three girls charged with delinquency; 12 were adult men.

Burglary was the chief offense for Children's Court probation. Twelve boys were placed on probation for that offense. Automobile thefts were involved in two cases involving boys. Eight boys and one girl were placed on probation as a result of other stealing while acts of carelessness or mischief involved one boy. Two girls were involved in forgery.

Stresses Privacy
Again Probation Officer Burhans calls attention to the need of privacy facilities for interviews with those on probation. Interviews must now be conducted in the public office of the county judge which is frequently crowded with attorneys or others waiting to interview the county judge.

Burhans also calls attention to the growing need for another probation worker. Because of the great increase in payment cases, it is impossible for one person to properly investigate and supervise adult and children on probation. He asks that another worker be provided.

Secretariat to Take Over Functions Under Hand of Khrushchev

Moscow, March 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov, new chief of the Soviet Government, has resigned his post as secretary of the Russian Communist party's powerful Central Committee. A five-man secretariat, headed by former Ukrainian party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev takes over.

The change was announced today by Pravda, the party's newspaper. It said a plenary session of the Central Committee accepted Malenkov's resignation March 14.

Has Firm Policies
The announcement made it clear that the 58-year-old Khrushchev, who regained a reputation for firm policies in the Ukraine, will devote his full time to the task of administering the party. He will operate under the leadership of the committee's 10-member Presidium, which is still headed by Malenkov.

The new set-up will allow Malenkov to concentrate full attention on his post as prime minister. No mention was made today of the position of general secretary of the party and it appeared this formal post—held for many years by Joseph Stalin—has been abolished for some time. The post was not listed at the time of Stalin's funeral. Nor was it mentioned last October, when a 10-man secretariat was elected. Then Stalin's name simply appeared at the top of the list of secretaries.

Other Members
The four other members of the new streamlined secretariat were listed today—probably in their order of importance—as:

Mikhail Suslov, 51, former party leader in the North Caucasus and Lithuanian Republic and recently editor-in-chief of Pravda.

Peter Pospelov, ex-Pravda editor who long headed the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute as a leading theoretician of the Red party.

Nikolai Shatalin, recently a candidate to the secretariat.

Semyon Ignatiev, 49, veteran party worker and former deputy in the Moscow Soviet.

Today's shakeup in the party secretariat was the third within six months.

Hurt as Car Snaps Pole
John Churchfield, 24, and William Churchfield, both of 66 North street, LeRoy, were injured about 5 a. m. today when the automobile in which they were riding struck and snapped off two utility poles along Route 9W a mile and a half north of Marlborough, state police of Highland reported. Both were taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment and examination, troopers said. Hospital authorities reported this morning that neither man was a patient there, indicating they were released after treatment.

Bailey Retires After 24 Years With Railroad

After 24 years of service with the New York Central Railroad, Casper C. Bailey of 84 O'Neil street, retired from duty on March 1. Bailey was employed in the plumbing department on the West Shore Division, Walkkill Valley Branch, and also the Catskill Mountain Division. Throughout his years of service he was noted for his honest and faithful service to the railroad.

10 in One Family Killed In Jersey's Worst Crash

Washington, N. J., March 21 (AP)—A 32-year old dairy farmer and nine members of his family lost their lives in a head-on highway crash last night as they were on their way to do the weekly shopping.

Their 1953 sedan was crumpled in a collision with a trailer truck on two-lane Route 69 in Warren county.

State police said it was one of the worst traffic accidents in the history of New Jersey.

Killed outright were Clarence Matlock, who operated a 60-cow Dairy Farm in Rural Silver Lake, N. J., his wife, Alma; three daughters, Esther, 10, Joan, 5, and Rosemary, 2; a son, Clarence, Jr., 1, his mother, Elizabeth, 75, and his two sisters, Grace, 48, and Mary, 50.

Another son, Raymond, the only member of the family taken from the car alive, died in Warren Hospital, Phillipsburg, early this morning—on his eighth birthday.

Two men in the truck escaped uninjured. They were the driver, John Scarrantino of Scranston, Pa., and the owner, Lawrence Butler of Dunmore, Pa.

5 MIGs Downed By Allied Jets

Seoul, March 21 (AP)—Allied Sabre jets today shot down five Communist MIGs and damaged seven others in the skies over North Korea.

Two American pilots downed their tenth MIGs and became double aces during the furious air battles.

Capt. Manuel Fernandez, Jr., of Miami, Fla., and Capt. Harold E. Fischer, Jr., of Sweet City, Iowa, each raised his MIG destruction score to ten, the Fifth Air Force said.

Fernandez shot down two MIGs this afternoon while Fischer shot down one.

On the ground, there were only sporadic clashes between mud caked soldiers as steady rain soaked the 155 mile battlefront until near dawn.

Allied fighter bombers sliced through clearing skies to strafe and bomb the Communist front and just behind the Red lines.

Twenty American Superforts blasted Red troops and supply centers in North Korea during darkness.

Seven of the B-29s bombed targets southeast of Pyongyang and six others hit north of the Red capital.

The six Superforts, flying north of Pyongyang, dropped bombs around 230 buildings and supply stacks at Sinui on the main rail and road network from Manchuria south to the front.

First Lt. Richard P. Guidrez, from Louisiana, made both of his MIG claims, his first of the war.

Amalgamated Has Austrian Visitors At Jacobson Plant

Local Firm Is Selected as Model by Union and Bard College for Europeans

An Austrian women's group, an all-labor technical assistance team, visited the local plant of F. Jacobson & Sons on Thursday afternoon. The trip was sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency at Bard College, and arranged by Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The TA (Technical Assistance) program is a two-way plan of helping European unionists, management and technicians learn about the way Americans do things. Part of the program is to send American experts and advisers to European industries and farms and unions. The other part of the program is to bring study teams of Europeans to the United States. In America productivity is high and has been constantly rising.

How Visits Help
It was felt Europeans might be helped in seeking higher productivity if they could have a look at American attitudes and techniques. Accordingly, the TA program has been devised and carried on first by the Economic Cooperation Administration and now by its successor, the Mutual Security Agency, in cooperation with the European governments.

This is the second group that has visited this particular factory, a group of Norway's top labor representatives having been here in November. Members of the Austrian group included Johanna Foerster, a laundry worker, and head of the Women's Division of the Union of Employees in Commerce, Transport and Traffic; Lotte Grabner, head of the Women's Division of the Austrian Federation of Trade Unions; Emma Haas of the Textile, Garment and Leather Workers' Union.

Yank Negotiator From TWU Table As Alleged Red

New York, March 21 (AP)—A Canadian-born CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU) leader, yanked from a collective bargaining table and sent to Ellis Island, faced possible deportation today as an alleged Communist party member.

The union official, Gordon A. Barragher, 45, was arrested in Patchogue, N. Y., yesterday while he was in the midst of negotiations in a bus strike now 43 days old.

He seemed stunned as immigration officials called him from the bargaining table and read their warrant to him. A newsman later asked him if he were a Communist party member, and Barragher replied:

"Nonsense."

Barragher was then whisked off to New York city and Ellis Island, where he was held without bond.

Details Withheld

Immigration officials here gave no details of the arrest, but Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., in Washington said the warrant charges Barragher with membership in the Communist party. The Justice Department added that he is an alien. No further details were given.

Barragher, born in Toronto in

Predicts Confirmation Monday as Vote of Confidence for Eisenhower

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Sen. Tobey (R-NH) pitched into the fight over Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen's nomination as ambassador to Russia today by denouncing GOP opponents for trying "to stab the President in the back."

"They will not succeed," the senator declared, "and Bohlen will be confirmed Monday in an overwhelming vote of confidence in Eisenhower."

One of Bohlen's critics, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), demanded that Secretary of State Dulles be "put under oath" and questioned further by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

McCarthy voiced the demand in the wake of Dulles' news conference yesterday in which the secretary disputed Sen. McCarran's (D-Neu) contention that Dulles "cleared" Bohlen over objections from W. R. Scott McLeod, the State Department's new security officer.

Along with McCarran, McCarthy and Sen. Bridge, Senate temporary president and Tobey's GOP colleague from New Hampshire—are leading the admitted minority opposing Bohlen.

Mentions No Names

Tobey mentioned no names, but told this reporter:

"The opposition comes from a little group of willful men. For 20 years we've been trying to get a Republican administration. Instead of upholding the President, they are trying to block him and put daggers in his back. They are attacking the President and trying to undermine his administration."

"These critics are not worthy to unlance either Acheson's or Bohlen's shoes."

Dean Acheson, when secretary of state under former President Truman, was heavily criticized by Republicans, particularly McCarthy.

Tobey was the first GOP senator to speak out so sharply in an obvious slap at McCarthy, chairman of the Senate's permanent investigating committee.

Says Assertion 'Untrue'

McCarthy failed yesterday for the second straight day to bring McLeod before that committee for questioning in a closed session. The security officer reportedly is out of town, but McCarthy said he expected to have the committee question him today.

McCarthy said that, from the information he had received, Dulles' assertion that he and McLeod were in agreement about Bohlen "would appear to be untrue."

Both Dulles and McLeod should be called before the Foreign Relations Committee—which approved Bohlen 15-0 earlier this week—for questioning under oath.

Prisoner Release Promise of Reds May Ease Tension

Proposed Talks on Air Incidents Likely to Have Profound Impact on World Peace

London, March 21 (AP)—Western observers sifting recent Soviet moves today reported encouraging signs of a new conciliatory Russian attitude toward the west. The feeling was heightened by a Kremlin promise of immediate action toward freeing British civilian prisoners in North Korea.

The promise was made by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and announced last night by the British Foreign Office. Although the foreign office warned against premature optimism, the Soviet move followed the other developments that foreign diplomats in Moscow said could have a profound impact on world peace. These were:

1. The proposal by Gen. Vassily Chuiikov, Soviet commander in Germany, for British-Russian talks to avoid future East-West air incidents. The Russian general surprised the west by expressing regret over the death of seven British airmen in a Lincoln bomber shot down by Soviet MIGs over the Iron Curtain.

2. President Eisenhower's statement last Thursday that the U. S. always would go half way toward any Soviet attempt to settle world issues.

Wilson, Mellin Are Hurt in Car Mishap

Samuel Wilson, 21-year-old West Pointer from Woodstock, and James Mellin, 17, of Woodstock, were injured early today when the automobile Wilson was driving ran off the Ontonaga Trail and tumbled down an estimated 60 yards of guard rail posts and cable near the Sunset Drive-In Theatre, the sheriff's office reported.

Both young men were taken to the Benedictine Hospital, where Wilson's condition later this morning was reported as "fair." He suffered cuts and bruises, possible internal injuries and shock, according to the sheriff's report. Mellin, who reportedly received cuts and bruises to his right leg and shock, was treated but was not kept at the hospital.

Hits Guard Rail

Deputy Sheriffs Albert Eisele and Benjamin Newkirk investigated and reported the Wilson automobile left the highway on a curve near the drive-in theatre, hit the guard rails and then turned over, landing on its top in the creek. The deputies described it as a "total wreck."

Wilson was thrown clear of the vehicle, the report stated, but Mellin was still in the automobile when Donald West and Frank Modica arrived on the scene and pulled him free of the wrecked car and took both the injured persons to the hospital. The accident occurred about 3:15 a. m.

Sees No Red Change

Wilson said there is no change in the military posture of Russia as a result of Joseph Stalin's death and succession by Premier Georgi Malenkov, that would call for revision of administration plans to cut defense spending.

Along this line, Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference yesterday the U. S. has had no overtures from the Soviet government through diplomatic channels. Dulles added that the U. S. government has evaluated Malenkov's speeches about peace but does not "receive any great comfort" from them.

Wilson said that the reduction of the total number of men and women now in uniform would be confined to divisions and military units in the homeland.

Wilson Statement Is Tip There Will Be No Big Addition to Truman's Defense Budget

Washington, March 21 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration apparently has turned thumbs down on proposals for a sizeable increase in former President Truman's $46,296,000,000 military spending program.

Informed members of Congress interpreted Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement yesterday—that there will be no boost in the Truman defense budget—as ruling out recommendations left on President Eisenhower's desk when Truman quit the White House.

As described by the legislators, these recommendations involved a several billion dollar boost in defense spending in the two years beginning July 1. Their disclosure recently to a group of congressional White House visitors caused some leaders to comment publicly at the time that the military picture was "grim."

The National Security Council is reported to have approved the proposed additions, but Truman was said to have taken no action on them in his final days in office, leaving the decision to Eisenhower.

Lawmakers said it was their understanding the added money would be used to rescind stretch-out orders in particularly critical items, such as the new B-52 jet bombers.

Wilson did not discuss these recommendations at his news conference yesterday nor did he view the military picture as particularly grim.

He said he wishes the country were better prepared than it is, but he commented: "I don't think any of us should lay awake nights for fear we are going to be blasted into eternity tomorrow morning."

Forecasts Reduction

Wilson said he believes reductions can be made in manpower and spending without weakening combat strength. He forecast a reduction by July 1 of the 3½ million persons now in uniform.

Eisenhower has said in the past that the best defense force may not necessarily be the largest. The President told his news conference that savings could be made in administrative costs.

Wilson disclosed that the monthly rate of defense spending had been frozen at the January level of nearly four billion dollars, adding that he hopes the rate will not go up. He said outlays for atomic defenses are in the work—indicating he sees no ominous developments that might force the U. S. into expensive girding for atomic attack.

The secretary said he had heard of a study prepared by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology which put the cost of an atomic defense net at 16 to 20 billion dollars. He said it was under review but he expected no early action.

Sees No Red Change

Wilson said there is no change in the military posture of Russia as a result of Joseph Stalin's death and succession by Premier Georgi Malenkov, that would call for revision of administration plans to cut defense spending.

Children's Cases

The Children's Court case load continued from 1951 was 50. During 1952 29 were received, one from transfer, making a total of 79. Twenty-seven passed from probation and one was transferred to another court, leaving 51 still on probation on December 31, 1952. Of these 36 were boys and three girls charged with delinquency; 12 were adult men.

Burglary was the chief offense for Children's Court probation. Twelve boys were placed on probation for that offense. Automobile thefts were involved in two cases involving boys. Eight boys and one girl were placed on probation as a result of other stealing while acts of carelessness or mischief involved one boy. Two girls were involved in forgery.

Stresses Privacy

Again Probation Officer Burhans calls attention to the need of private facilities for interviews with those on probation. Interviews must now be conducted in the public office of the county judge which is frequently crowded with attorneys or others waiting to interview the county judge.

Burhans also calls attention to the growing need for another probation worker. Because of the great increase in payment cases, it is impossible for one person to properly investigate and supervise adult and children on probation. He asks that another worker be provided.

Secretariat to Take Over Functions Under Hand of Khrushchev

Moscow, March 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov, new chief of the Soviet Government, has resigned his post as secretary of the Russian Communist party's powerful Central Committee. A five-man secretariat, headed by former Ukrainian party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev takes over.

The change was announced today by Pravda, the party's newspaper. It said a plenary session of the Central Committee accepted Malenkov's resignation March 14.

Has Firm Policies

The announcement made it clear that the 58-year-old Khrushchev, who regained a reputation for firm policies in the Ukraine, will devote his full time to the task of administering the party. He will operate under the leadership of the committee's 10-member Presidium, which is still headed by Malenkov.

The new set-up will allow Malenkov to concentrate full attention on his post as prime minister. No mention was made today of the position of general secretary of the party and it appeared this formal post—held for many years by Joseph Stalin—has been abolished for some time. The post was not listed at the time of Stalin's funeral. Nor was it mentioned last October, when a 10-man secretariat was elected. Then Stalin's name simply appeared at the top of the list of secretaries.

Other Members

The four other members of the new streamlined secretariat were listed today—probably in their order of importance—as:

Mikhail Suslov, 51, former party leader in the North Caucasus and Lithuanian Republic and recently editor-in-chief of Pravda.

Peter Pospelov, ex-Pravda editor who long headed the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute as a leading theoretician of the Red party. Nikolai Shatalin, recently a candidate to the secretariat.

Semyon Ignatyev, 49, veteran party worker and former deputy in the Moscow Soviet.

Today's shakeup in the party secretariat was the third within six months.

Hurt as Car Snaps Pole

John Churchfield, 24, and William Churchfield, both of 66 North street, LeRoy, were injured about 5 a. m. today when the automobile in which they were riding struck and snapped off two utility poles along Route 9W a mile and a half north of Marlborough, state police of Highland reported. Both were taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment and examination, troopers said. Hospital authorities reported this morning that neither man was a patient there, indicating they were released after treatment.

Bailey Retires After 24 Years With Railroad

After 24 years of service with the New York Central Railroad, Casper C. Bailey of 84 O'Neil street, retired from duty on March 1. Bailey was employed in the plumbing department on the West Shore Division, Wallkill Valley Branch and also the Catskill Mountain Division. Throughout his years of service he was noted for his honest and faithful service to the railroad.

10 in One Family Killed In Jersey's Worst Crash

Washington, N. J., March 21 (AP)—A 32-year-old dairy farmer and nine members of his family lost their lives in a head-on highway crash last night as they were on their way to do the weekly shopping.

Their 1953 sedan was crumpled in a collision with a trailer truck on two-lane Route 69 in Warren county.

State police said it was one of the worst traffic accidents in the history of New Jersey. Killed outright were Clarence Matlock, who operated a 60-cow Dairy Farm in Rural Silver Lake, N. J., his wife, Alma; three daughters, Esther, 10, Joan, 5, and Rosemary, 2; a son, Clarence, Jr., 1, his mother, Elizabeth, 75, and his two sisters, Grace, 48, and Mary, 50.

Another son, Raymond, the only member of the family taken from the car alive, died in Warren Hospital, Phillipsburg, early this morning—on his eighth birthday.

Two men in the truck escaped uninjured. They were the driver, John Scarantino of Scranton, Pa., and the owner, Lawrence Butler of Dunmore, Pa.

5 MIGSs Downed By Allied Jets

Seoul, March 21 (AP)—Allied Sabre jets today shot down five Communist MIGs and damaged seven others in the skies over North Korea.

Two American pilots downed their tenth MIGs and became double aces during the furious air battles.

Capt. Manuel Fernandez, Jr., of Miami, Fla., and Capt. Harold E. Fischer, Jr., of Swea City, Iowa, each raised his MIG destruction score to ten, the Fifth Air Force said. Fernandez shot down two MIGs this afternoon while Fischer shot down one.

On the ground, there were only sporadic clashes between mud caked soldiers as steady rain soaked the 155 mile battlefront until near dawn.

Allied fighter bombers sliced through clearing skies to strafe and bomb the Communist front and just behind the Red lines.

Twenty American Superforts blasted Red troops and supply centers in North Korea during darkness.

Seven of the B-29s bombed targets southeast of Pyongyang and six others hit north of the Red capital.

The six Superforts, flying north of Pyongyang, dropped bombs around 230 buildings and supply stacks at Simi on the main rail and road network from Manchuria south to the front.

First Lt. Richard P. Guidrez, from Louisiana, made both of his MIG claims, his first of the war.

Amalgamated Has Austrian Visitors At Jacobson Plant

Local Firm Is Selected as Model by Union and Bard College for Europeans

An Austrian women's group, an all-labor technical assistance team, visited the local plant of F. Jacobson & Sons on Thursday afternoon. The trip was sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency at Bard College, and arranged by Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

The TA (Technical Assistance) program is a two-way plan of helping European unionists, management and technicians learn about the way Americans do things. Part of the program is to send American experts and advisers to European industries and farms and unions. The other part of the program is to bring study teams of Europeans to the United States. In America productivity is high and has been constantly rising.

How Visits Help

It was felt Europeans might be helped in seeking higher productivity if they could have a look at American attitudes and techniques. Accordingly, the TA program has been devised and carried on, first by the Economic Cooperation Administration and now by its successor, the Mutual Security Agency, in cooperation with the European governments.

This is the second group that has visited this particular factory, a group of Norway's top labor representatives having been here in November. Members of the Austrian group included Johanna Foerster, a laundry worker, and head of the Women's Division of the Union of Employes in Commerce, Transport and Traffic; Lotte Grabher, head of the Women's Division of the Austrian Federation of Trade Unions; Emma Haas of the Textile, Garment and Leather Workers' Union.

Yank Negotiator From TWU Table As Alleged Red

New York, March 21 (AP)—A Canadian-born CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU) leader, yanked from a collective bargaining table and sent to Ellis Island, faced possible deportation today as an alleged Communist party member.

The union official, Gordon A. Barragher, 45, was arrested in Patchogue, N. Y., yesterday while he was in the midst of negotiations in a bus strike now 43 days old.

He seemed stunned as immigration officials called him from the bargaining table and read their warrant to him. A newsman later asked him if he were a Communist party member, and Barragher replied: "Nonsense."

Barragher was then whisked off to New York city and Ellis Island, where he was held without bond.

Details Withheld

Immigration officials here gave no details of the arrest, but Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., in Washington said the warrant charges Barragher with membership in the Communist party. The Justice Department added that he is an alien. No further details were given.

Airliner Explosion Costs 35 Lives Of Crew and Airmen Near Oakland

Oakland, Calif., March 21 (AP)—A four-engine transport plane crashed and exploded in a ball of fire south of here last night, killing 30 airmen passengers from a Roswell, N. M., base and its five civilian crew members.

The plane, a Transocean Air Lines DC-4, struck a hill near Decoto just a few minutes after it cleared for a landing with the Oakland Airport. Decoto is the area of California's worst air disaster—50 killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane under similar circumstances Aug. 24, 1951. That plane, too, was about to land.

Alameda county sheriff's Capt. Richard E. Condon at the scene of the Transocean crash said there were no survivors.

Eyewitnesses said the aircraft, flying through a drizzle of rain, smashed into the hill, broke into bits and then burst into flames.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said she heard a crash and then a series of explosions. She ran as close to the burning plane as she could.

"I saw men with their clothes on fire—some on the ground—some trying to get up, staggering, falling back into the flames."

Alameda county sheriff's officers said bodies could be seen burning within the portion of the fuselage that remained intact. The wreckage of the plane was scattered over a quarter-mile radius in the soft, newly-plowed field where it fell.

Prisoner Release Promise of Reds May Ease Tension

Proposed Talks on Air Incidents Likely to Have Profound Impact on World Peace

London, March 21 (AP)—Western observers sifting recent Soviet moves today reported encouraging signs of a new conciliatory Russian attitude toward the west. The feeling was heightened by a Kremlin promise of immediate action toward freeing British civilian prisoners in North Korea.

The promise was made by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and announced last night by the British Foreign Office. Although the foreign office warned against premature optimism, the Soviet move followed the other developments that foreign diplomats in Moscow said could have a profound impact on world peace.

The proposal by Gen. Vassily Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany, for British-Russian talks to avoid future East-West air incidents. The Russian general surprised the west by expressing regret over the death of seven British airmen in a Lincoln bomber shot down by Soviet MIGs over the Iron Curtain.

Wilson, Mellin Are Hurt in Car Mishap

Samuel Wilson, 21-year-old West Pointer from Woodstock, and James Mellin, 17, of Woodstock, were injured early today when the automobile Wilson was driving ran off the Onteora Trail and took down an estimated 60 yards of guard rail posts and cable near the Sunset Drive-In Theatre, the sheriff's office reported.

Both young men were taken to the Benedictine Hospital, where Wilson's condition later this morning was reported as "fair." He suffered cuts and bruises, possible internal injuries and shock, according to the sheriff's report.

Mellin, who reportedly received cuts and bruises to his right leg and shock, was treated but was not kept at the hospital.

Hits Guard Rail

Deputy Sheriffs Albert Eisele and Benjamin Newkirk investigated and reported the Wilson automobile left the highway on a curve near the drive-in theatre, hit the guard rails and then turned over, landing on its top in the creek. The deputies described it as a "total wreck."

Wilson was thrown clear of the vehicle, the report stated, but Mellin was still in the automobile when Donald West and Frank Modica arrived on the scene and pulled him free of the wrecked car and took both the injured persons to the hospital. The accident occurred about 3:15 a. m.

Sees No Red Change

Wilson said there is no change in the military posture of Russia, as a result of Joseph Stalin's death and succession by Premier Georgi Malenkov, that would call for revision of administration plans to cut defense spending.

Along this line, Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference yesterday the U. S. has had no overtures from the Soviet government through diplomatic channels. Dulles added that the U. S. government has evaluated Malenkov's speeches about peace but does not "receive any great comfort" from them.

Wilson said that the reduction of the total number of men and women now in uniform would be confined to divisions and military units in the homeland.

Whitehead Hearing Scheduled April 10

New York, March 21 (AP)—A hearing for Peter Whitehead, 50-year-old real estate salesman, of Woodstock, N. Y., on charges of sending threatening letters to a woman in the same community has been scheduled for April 10 by U. S. Commissioner Isaac Platt.

The commissioner yesterday fixed a $500 bail for the defendant, Assistant U. S. Attorney Leonard Maran said Whitehead had addressed "at least three letters" to Mrs. Margaret Kenyon, of Woodstock, "suggesting physical and bodily harm."

Wilson Statement Is Tip There Will Be No Big Addition to Truman's Defense Budget

Washington, March 21 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration apparently has turned thumbs down on proposals for a sizeable increase in former President Truman's $46,296,000,000 military spending program.

Informal members of Congress interpreted Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement yesterday—that there will be no boost in the Truman defense budget—as ruling out recommendations left on President Eisenhower's desk when Truman quit the White House.

As described by the legislators, these recommendations involved a several billion dollar boost in defense spending in the two years beginning July 1. Their disclosure recently to a group of congressional White House visitors caused some leaders to comment publicly at the time that the military picture was "grim."

The National Security Council is reported to have approved the proposed additions, but Truman was said to have taken no action on them in his final days in office, leaving the decision to Eisenhower.

Lawmakers said it was their understanding the added money would be used to rescind stretch-out orders in particularly critical items, such as the new B-52 jet bombers.

Wilson did not discuss these recommendations at his news conference yesterday nor did he view the military picture as particularly grim.

He said he wishes the country were better prepared than it is, but he commented: "I don't think any of us should lay awake nights for fear we are going to be blasted into eternity tomorrow morning." Still, he added, it might be well to "keep in a reasonable position to meet the Maker."

Forecasts Reduction

Wilson said he believes reduction can be made in manpower and spending without weakening combat strength. He forecast a reduction by July 1 of the 3½ million persons now in uniform.

Eisenhower has said in the past that the best defense force may not necessarily be the largest. The President told his news conference that savings could be made in administrative costs.

Wilson disclosed that the monthly rate of defense spending had been frozen at the January level of nearly four billion dollars, adding that he hopes the rate will not go up. He said also he hopes draft calls, now running about 53,000 a month, can be reduced.

It seemed apparent from Wilson's talk about spending cuts that no huge new outlays for atomic defenses are in the works—indicating he sees no ominous developments that might force the U. S. into expensive girding for atomic attack.

The secretary said he had heard of a study prepared by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology which put the cost of an atomic defense net at 16 to 20 billion dollars. He said it was under review but he expected no early action.

Sees No Red Change

Wilson said there is no change in the military posture of Russia, as a result of Joseph Stalin's death and succession by Premier Georgi Malenkov, that would call for revision of administration plans to cut defense spending.

Along this line, Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference yesterday the U. S. has had no overtures from the Soviet government through diplomatic channels. Dulles added that the U. Dawn Service Set Easter Morning at Drive-In Theatre

Plans were completed this week for a community-wide Easter Dawn service in Kingston, according to the Rev. Donald E. Brown of the First Baptist Church, chairman of the planning committee. Sponsored by the Kingston Ministerial Association, the service will be held in the 9W Drive-In Theatre, north of Kingston, at 6 a. m. Easter.

The site for the services has been made available by Reade Theatres, who are also enlarging their stage facilities and will provide flowers. WKNY will record the service and rebroadcast it at 8 a. m. the same morning.

Mr. Schwarz, representative of the Walter Reade Theatres in Kingston, and Robert Sabin, radio program director, have worked in close cooperation with the Ministerial Association; the latter committee is composed of the Rev. Mr. Brown, chairman; Dr. R. M. Houston, St. James Methodist; the Rev. Lars Lilliestol, St. Paul's Lutheran; the Rev. John Dykstra, Hurley Reformed; the Rev. David C. Gaise, Redeemer Lutheran; and the Rev. I. F. Gosso, Trinity Methodist.

The dawn service will be the first such venture on an inter-church basis for nearly 10 years. The Rev. Mr. Brown pointed out the advantage of being able to sit in one's own car, so that cold or inclement weather will be no hazard. Members of the Ministerial Association are making every effort to invite persons from nearby towns as well as those in Kingston to come.

Details of the program are also complete and will be announced at a later date.

To Speak Sunday

REV. DONALD E. BROWN

The fifth in the Lenten union services of Sunday night services, under the auspices of the Uptown Protestant Churches, will be held Sunday at 8 p. m. in the sanctuary of St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany at Tremper avenues.

Guest preacher this week will be the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who will speak on the theme, "The One Christ and Our Many Churches."

Participating in this service in addition to the Rev. Mr. Brown, will be the Rev. Robert T. Shellenger, rector of the host church; and the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The music by the choir of St. John's Church, is under the direction of Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, and will include the anthem, "Watch Ye and Pray by Vicars."

The public is cordially invited to share in this service.

Religious Radio Workshop to Be Held at Trinity

Under the auspices of the Kingston Ministerial Association and sponsored by the National Council of Churches, a one-day Religious Radio Workshop is to be held Tuesday, from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick is the pastor. Pastors, organists and choir directors of all of the Protestant churches in Kingston and most of Ulster county have been invited.

Directing and speaking at this Religious Radio Workshop will be John J. Grollier, secretary for religious broadcasting of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. Grollier, first director of the newly-established broadcasting office of the Board of National Missions, began this work in 1951 after 15 years in commercial, educational and religious broadcasting.

Returning east from a radio director's job in Sacramento, he became associate professor of radio education at Ithaca College where he served five years. He was chairman of radio, taught or supervised 14 college courses on many phases of radio work and founded and managed the college-licensed FM station WITJ.

Following the luncheon next Tuesday, which will be prepared and served in the host church by Jack Remus, former chef at the Embassy Restaurant, there will be a panel discussion of local religious radio problems in which members of the staff of WKNY will participate including Robert Sabin, program director.

Adventists Open Drive for Funds

Seventh-day Adventists of Kingston will launch their annual ingathering appeal today, according to Pastor Reese Jenkins. The local church plans to reach its goal in five weeks through a door-to-door solicitation campaign.

The appeal, conducted by the 2,878 Adventist churches in the United States and Canada last year, netted more than $3 million for the support of medical, educational and evangelistic activities carried on by Adventists in 193 of the 230 countries of the world. An additional $2 million was raised overseas.

Members in the North America themselves gave nearly $36 million to the work of the church last year, a per capita gift of $15.67, Pastor Reese Jenkins explained, "but our own gifts are not enough in this day when Christian missions are playing a vital role in the world's struggle for freedom."

To quote Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon's minister to the United States: "The work of American missionaries abroad is more important than diplomacy in expressing the desire of the American people for peace and plenty in the world. The hospitals and schools the churches have built are the best evidence you have to show your concern for the world."

The funds also are used to carry on the denominational mission program through 551 major institutions, including hospitals, schools and publishing houses. More than 3,100 Adventist mission schools are in operation.

Presbyterian Men Organize Chapter

A local chapter of the National Council of Presbyterian Men was organized at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday night.

Casper Souers was elected president of the group, which adopted the name, Colonial City Chapter. Edil Flowers was elected vice president, Howard Stephens, secretary, and Robert Murray, Jr., treasurer. Fred Stang, presided at the meeting. A constitution and by-laws were adopted.

The chapter will meet monthly on the second Monday. J. Walter Juckett of Hudson Falls, treasurer and general manager of the Sandy Hill Iron and Brass Works and senior vice president of the New York Synod Council of Presbyterian Men, gave an inspirational talk in which he outlined the task of laymen in the church. He also explained the set-up of the Council and its role in the life of the church.

The meeting followed a pot luck supper.

Bible Group to Meet

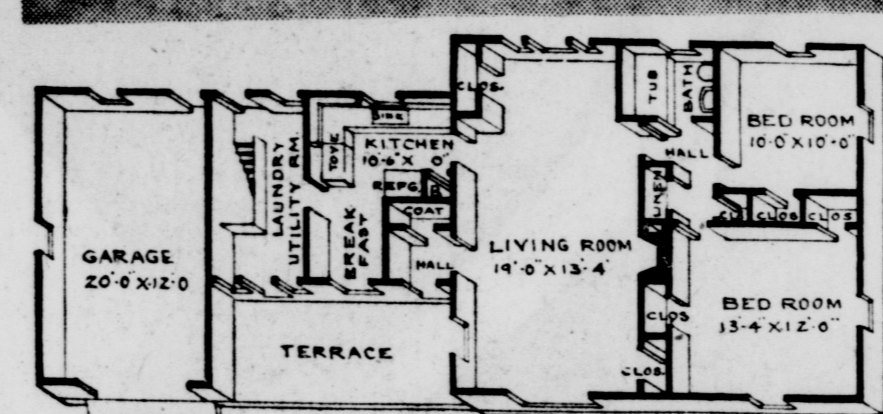

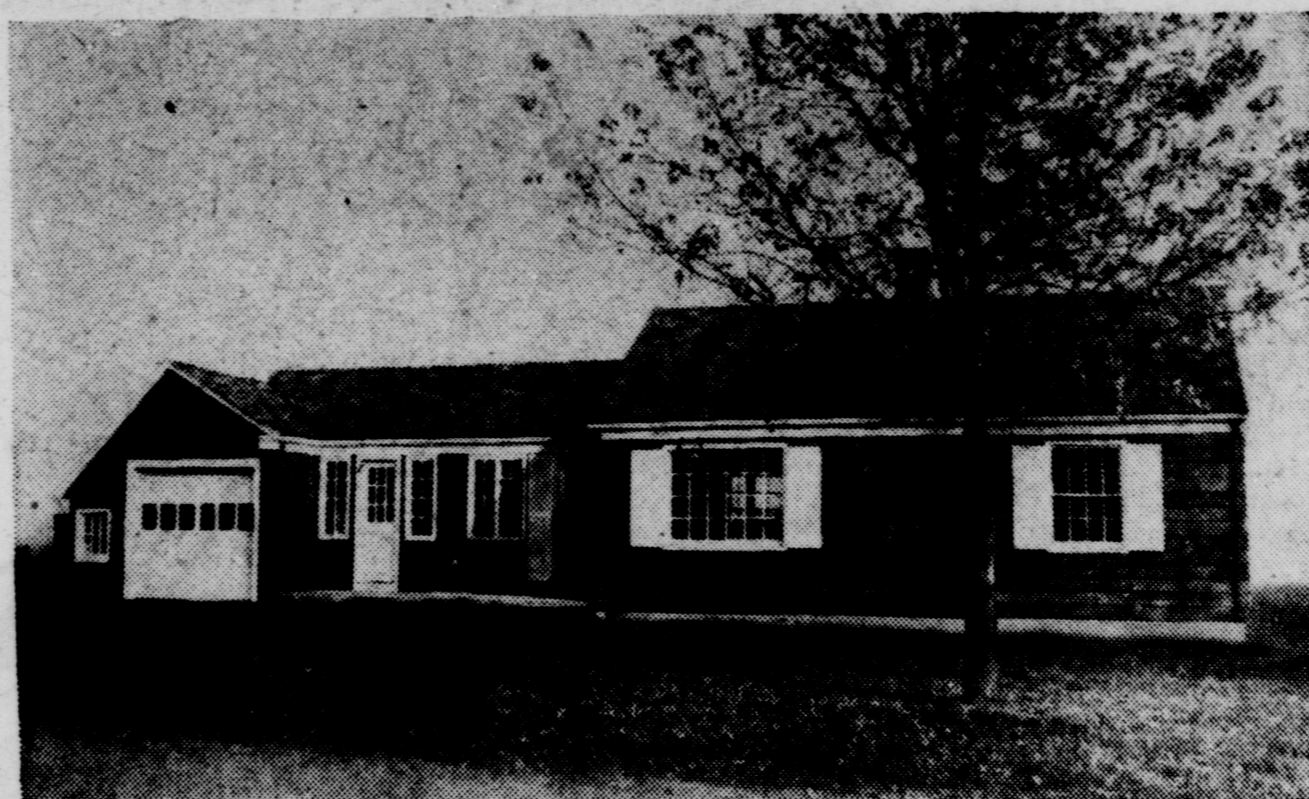

The Clinton Avenue Chapter-a Day Club will meet in the assembly hall of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, 122 Clinton avenue, Sunday at 4 p. m. There will be a period for the sharing of observations and discoveries that have been made through the daily reading of the chapters of the Bible. Dr. Clyde Herbert Snell will conduct the discussions and speak briefly. Everyone is cordially invited to share in this interesting and helpful hour with the Bible.

THE APPLE

Comfortable and Informal Design

Rooms Four
Bedrooms Two
Closets Nine
Cubage:
House 13,600 ft.
Garage 8,000 ft.
Length 60 ft.

Built along straight simple lines with the left wing and attached garage providing just enough of a break to give a distinctive touch to the house exterior, "The Apple," has a comfortable interior designed for informal, modern living.

With a house of this type, the choice of exterior finish really depends upon your preference. Should you decide upon a shingled exterior, and if you build in the suburbs or country, barn red would be excellent for the shingles with a trim of white on the blinds and doors.

Overall length of "The Apple," including the attached one-car garage, is 60 feet. Cubage of the house is 13,600 feet; cubage of the wing is 8,000 feet. You'll need at least an 80-foot lot if you plan to build "The Apple."

People, who like an informal style home such as "The Apple," also usually like to spend time outdoors and to entertain outside whenever possible during the warmer weather. The yard in back of the wing can easily be converted into a very pleasant outdoor living area; include a fireplace so that you and your guests can have the fun of cooking your food outdoors.

Closet space is very carefully planned in "The Apple." Two storage walls contain six closets—while there also is a large coat closet in the entry hall, a good sized broom closet in the kitchen and a spacious closet in the further end of the left living room wall.

Although there is no regular dining room in "The Apple," the unusually large living room (it measures 19' x 13'4") can easily serve two purposes. The further end of the living room makes the ideal location for your dining room equipment; not only is this area nearest to the kitchen but it's also well lighted and ventilated by the picture window and the two casement windows flanking it.

Of course, you can use the breakfast nook, opening off the front of the kitchen for most of your families' meals. The laundry-utility room is very well lighted by three windows; it contains doors leading to both the front and back yards. Stairs to the basement lead down from the utility room.

Both bedrooms in "The Apple" are located at the right end of the house. These rooms are of good size and reap the benefits of cross ventilation. Place the heating plant under the living room in the basement of "The Apple." The remaining basement can be used for storage or be converted into a playroom.

Blueprints Available Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman, and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Neglect Expensive

Roof leaks are costly. Once a roof begins to crack, bulge, blister, rot or rust, it's the greatest wisdom to have it carefully checked. For the good of your pocketbook, the stitch-in-time technique is advisable. The renewal of protective coatings is especially important at this time of year when there is stormy weather ahead.

Painting Doors

It is best to lay doors flat while painting them; otherwise the paint will not "stay put" in the corners where moldings join. It is also easier to work on a horizontal plane surface.

Don't Stint on Showers

When planning a new house, it is advisable to provide not only for a shower head over the bath tub, but also for one or more showers in separate leakproof stalls.

Tips to Remember When Buying Lot

Try to select a lot protected from street noise, factory odors and traffic dangers.

Consider carefully the area of your lot. A half acre is about all one man can look after in his spare time.

Grading should always slope down from the house. This permits water to run off rather than stand around the perimeter of the house.

Most subdivisions are zoned for the type and cost of house. Be sure your building plans coincide with requirements.

The topsoil removed for excavation should be saved for spreading over the surface after the rough grading has been done.

Don't buy a site too close to other homes. Family arguments and neighbors' blaring radios and lack of breeze on hot days can make life unpleasant.

Don't buy a city-sized lot in a rural location if the soil is heavy clay or other impermeable type—you won't have enough ground area for septic tank seepage lines.

Fireplace Plan Must Be Given Much Thought

A fireplace is an expensive feature for a home, but, like a vacation, it pays dividends in contentment and good cheer that can't be measured in money.

Maybe a fireplace does not produce much heat for a room, but it does for the heart. On that account, it's still one of the most desired of all home features.

To give its users fullest benefit, the fireplace must be one of the most carefully planned parts of the house. Here are major points to consider:

Soil conditions: A fireplace, its foundation and chimney are a concentrated load, consistently greater than that of any other part of the house. Soil conditions therefore must be suitable to take great weight.

Location within room: A fireplace can't be moved around a room like a piano or sofa. It should not be so placed that traffic from door to door has to go between it and furniture.

Clay Tile Good Material

Materials: Fireproof materials should be the first choice for the fireplace facing. One of the most satisfactory is clay tile, since it is unaffected by heat and at the same time contributes color and form to the over-all design.

Emphasis: The fireplace should be neither too big, too small nor too squat for the room. If it is too large for the room, it will "dominate" and depress people, and make them feel uncomfortable.

Facing: For fireproofing, tile or other non-combustible material used for facing the fireplace should extend at least eight inches from the sides of the fireplace opening, and at least a foot above it.

Hearth: A material that won't be affected by sparks and small embers should be used for the hearth. It should extend eight inches to a foot beyond each side of the fireplace opening.

Entrance to Basement

Access to the cellar from outside the house is particularly desirable now that basements are being used so widely for recreation rooms and living quarters. Safety demands a second exit in case of fire. Stairs leading directly to the yard also eliminate the necessity of carrying tools, ashes and rubbish through the house. Steps and bulkheads can be installed at relatively little expense and will soon prove well worth the cost.

Binding Doors

Loose hinges often cause doors to bind.

Always Give Paint Thorough Stirring

Always stir the contents of a paint can before using. In the case of enamels particularly, be sure to stir the pigment thoroughly. The best procedure is to pour the top two thirds into another container and stir the remainder carefully. Then, continuing your stirring, return the poured-off liquid to the original can.

If the can has been opened before and a skin has formed on top of the can's contents, remove this whole before stirring. Should any part of the skin remain, pour the entire quantity through a strainer you obtain from your paint dealer. You can also use a piece of wire screen or an old section of hosiery for the purpose.

Removing Paint Spots

Old paint stains on brick can be removed by scrubbing with steel wool or a stiff wire brush. If the stains are fresh, they usually respond to a commercial paint remover.

Equipment Increases Usefulness of Closet

While hall closets are provided in practically all modern homes, many of them are sadly lacking in the matter of convenience. In fact, few home owners realize that the usefulness of such a closet may be greatly increased by the addition of simple and comparatively inexpensive equipment.

For example, a rack with a metal-lined trough at the bottom may be attached to the inside of the closet door, and here the family's stock of umbrellas may be stored without sacrificing valuable floor space. A metal-lined, well-ventilated chest for overcoats and rubbers may also be built in the closet.

In a household where there are several children, a mitten or glove box is another convenience. Like the rubber chest, this should be well-ventilated and divided into compartments, each labeled with the name of the owner.

Caulk the Joints

Joints between concrete porch floors and wood siding on the house should be packed with caulking compound. This will prevent moisture getting at the wood.

Prevents Stains

Copper and bronze, used structurally on exterior surfaces, should be varnished to prevent ugly stains from forming on surrounding paint. The metal surface should first be wiped clean with a turpentine rag. One coat of spar varnish will serve your purpose.

Good Paint Scraper

A piece of glass makes a pretty good paint scraper and it's also good for smoothing wood. But wear gloves to avoid cuts when handling the glass.

Speeds Building

One of the greatest time-savers in home construction was the invention of the portable electric saw.

Dawn Service Set Easter Morning at Drive-In Theatre

Plans were completed this week for a community-wide Easter Dawn service in Kingston, according to the Rev. Donald E. Brown of the First Baptist Church, chairman of the planning committee. Sponsored by the Kingston Ministerial Association, the service will be held in the 9W Drive-In Theatre, north of Kingston, at 6 a. m. Easter.

The site for the services has been made available by Reade Theatres, who are also enlarging their stage facilities and will provide flowers. WKNY will record the service and rebroadcast it at 8 a. m. the same morning.

Mr. Schwarz, representative of the Walter Reade Theatres in Kingston, and Robert Sabin, radio program director, have worked in close cooperation with the planning committee from the Ministerial Association; the latter committee is composed of the Rev. Mr. Brown, chairman; Dr. R. M. Houston, St. James Methodist; the Rev. Lars Lilliesten, St. Paul's Lutheran; the Rev. John Dykstra, Hurley Reformed; the Rev. David C. Gaise, Redeemer Lutheran; and the Rev. I. F. Gossio, Trinity Methodist.

The dawn service will be the first such venture on an inter-church basis for nearly 10 years. The Rev. Mr. Brown pointed out the advantage of being able to sit in one's own car, so that cold or inclement weather will be no hazard. Members of the Ministerial Association are making every effort to invite persons from nearby towns as well as those in Kingston to come.

Details of the program are also complete and will be announced at a later date.

To Speak Sunday

REV. DONALD E. BROWN

The fifth in the Lenten union services of Sunday night services, under the auspices of the Uptown Protestant Churches, will be held Sunday at 8 p. m. in the sanctuary of St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany at Tremper avenue.

Guest preacher this week will be the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who will speak on the theme, "The One Christ and Our Many Churches."

Participating in this service in addition to the Rev. Mr. Brown, will be the Rev. Robert T. Shell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church; and the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The music by the choir of St. John's Church, is under the direction of Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, and will include the anthem, "Watch Ye and Pray by Verses."

The public is cordially invited to share in this service.

Communion Slated Sunday Night by County CE Group

The Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will sponsor a young people's communion service Sunday at 6 p. m. at the Reformed Church of the Comforter, Waukegan place.

Ministers participating in the service will be the Rev. John Dykstra, Hurley Reformed Church, who will give the communion meditation; the Rev. Forrest Prindle, pastor of the host church; the Rev. Donald E. Brown, First Baptist and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemast, Old Dutch Church.

Young people taking part will include Miss Jean Supplies, Old Dutch Church; president of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union; Miss Dorothy Maines, Reformed Church of the Comforter; Miss Margaret Sanford, soloist; Miss Jean Wells, Old Dutch Church; James Nerone, Poncknock Congregational and Curry Freer, Woodstock Reformed.

All young people of the city and county are invited to attend.

In the true spirit of giving—give to the poor—others—give to Easter Seals.

Religious Radio Workshop to Be Held at Trinity

Under the auspices of the Kingston Ministerial Association and sponsored by the National Council of Churches, a one-day Religious Radio Workshop is to be held Tuesday, from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick is the pastor. Pastors, organists and choir directors of all of the Protestant churches in Kingston and most of Ulster county have been invited.

Directing and speaking at this Religious Radio Workshop will be John J. Grollier, secretary for religious broadcasting of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. Grollier, first director of the newly-established broadcasting office of the Board of National Missions, began this work in 1951 after 15 years in commercial, educational and religious broadcasting.

Returning east from a radio director's job in Sacramento, he became associate professor of radio education at Ithaca College where he served five years. He was chairman of radio, taught or supervised 14 college courses, on many phases of radio work and founded and managed the college-licensed FM station WITJ.

Following the luncheon next Tuesday, which will be prepared and served in the host church by Jack Remus, former chef at the Embassy Restaurant, there will be a panel discussion of local religious radio problems in which members of the staff of WKNY will participate including Robert Sabin, program director.

Adventists Open Drive for Funds

Seventh-day Adventists of Kingston will launch their annual ingathering appeal today, according to Pastor Reese Jenkins. The local church plans to reach its goal in five weeks through a door-to-door solicitation campaign.

The appeal, conducted by the 2,878 Adventist churches in the United States and Canada last year, netted more than $3 million for the support of medical, educational and evangelistic activities carried on by Adventists in 193 of the 230 countries of the world. An additional $2 million was raised overseas.

Members in the North America themselves gave nearly $36 million to the work of the church last year, a per capita gift of $150.87. Pastor Reese Jenkins explained, "but our own gifts are not enough in this day when Christian missions are playing a vital role in the world's struggle for freedom."

To quote Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon's minister to the United States: "The work of American missionaries abroad is more important than diplomacy in expressing the desire of the American people for peace and plenty in the world. The hospitals and schools the churches have built are the best evidence you have to show your concern for the world."

The funds also are used to carry on the denominational mission program through 551 major institutions, including hospitals, schools and publishing houses. More than 3,100 Adventist mission schools are in operation.

Presbyterian Men Organize Chapter

A local chapter of the National Council of Presbyterian Men was organized at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday night.

Casper Souers was elected president of the group, which adopted the name, Colonial City Chapter. Edil Flowers was elected vice president, Howard Stephens, secretary, and Robert Murray, Jr., treasurer. Fred Stang, president at the meeting. A constitution and by-laws were adopted.

The chapter will meet monthly on the second Monday.

J. Walter Juckett of Hudson Falls, treasurer and general manager of the Sandy Hill Iron and Brass Works, and Gordon V. president of the New York Synod Council of Presbyterian Men, gave an inspirational talk in which he outlined the task of laymen in the church. He also explained the set-up of the Council and its role in the life of the church.

The meeting followed a pot luck supper.

Bible Group to Meet

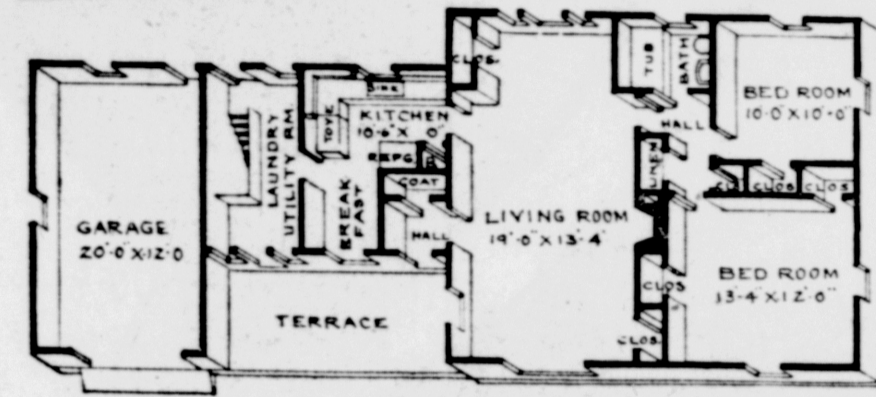

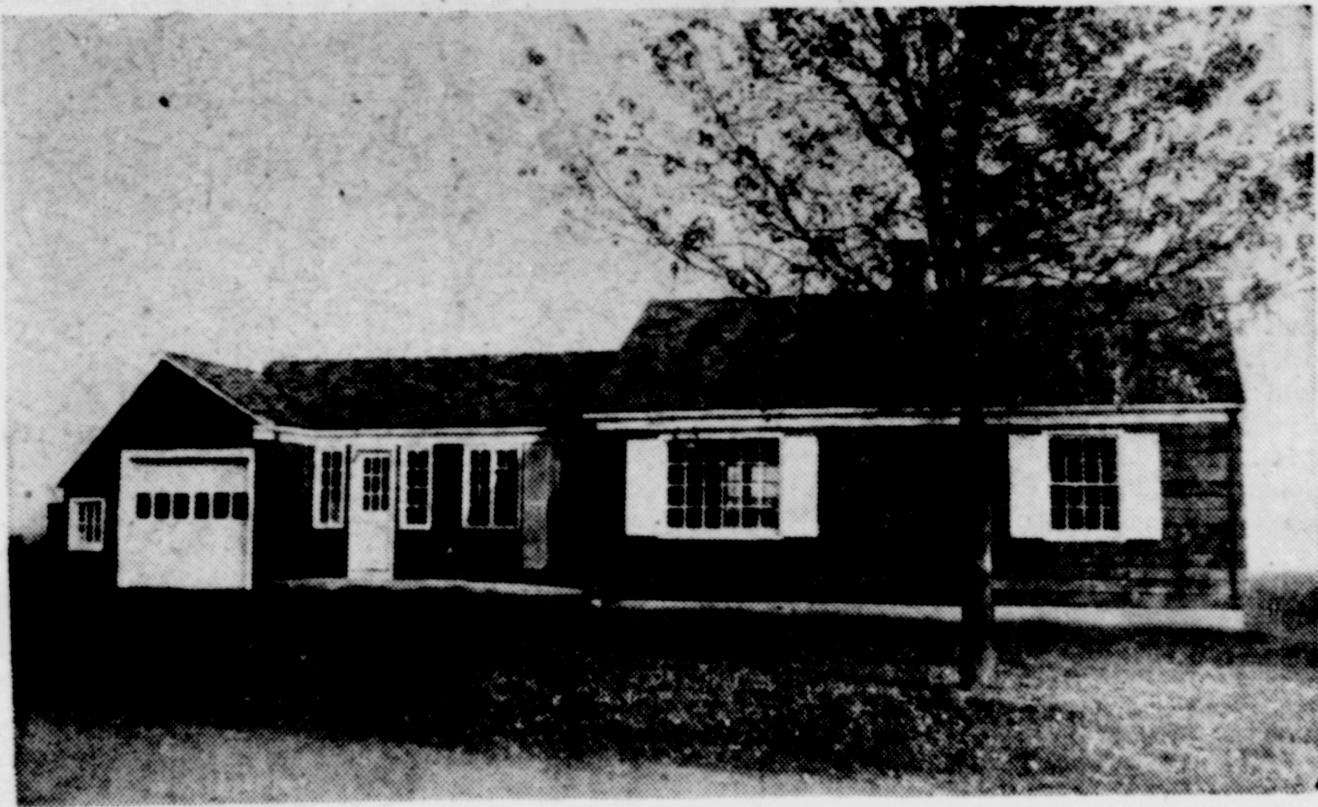

The Clinton Avenue Chapter-A Day Club will meet in the assembly room of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, 122 Clinton avenue, Sunday at 4 p. m. There will be a period for the sharing of observations and discoveries that have been made through the daily reading of the chapters of the Bible. Dr. Clyde Herbert Snell will conduct the discussions and speak briefly. Everyone is cordially invited to share in this interesting and helpful hour with the Bible.

THE APPLE

Comfortable and Informal Design

Rooms Four
Bedrooms Two
Closets Nine
Cubage:
House 13,600 sq. ft.
Garage 8,000 ft.
Length 60 ft.
Built along straight simple lines with the left wing and attached garage providing just enough of a break to give a distinctive touch to the house exterior, "The Apple," has a comfortable interior designed for informal, modern living.

With a house of this type, the choice of exterior finish really depends upon your preference. Should you decide upon a shingled exterior, and if you build in the suburbs or country, barn red would be excellent for the shingles with a trim of white on the blinds and doors.

Overall length of "The Apple," including the attached one-car garage, is 60 feet. Cubage of the house is 13,600 feet; cubage of the wing is 8,000 feet. You'll need at least an 80-foot lot, if you plan to build "The Apple."

People, who like an informal style home such as "The Apple," also usually like to spend time outdoors and to entertain outside whenever possible during the warmer weather. The yard in back of the wing can easily be converted into a very pleasant outdoor living area; include a fireplace so that you and your guests can have the fun of cooking your food outdoors.

Closet space is very carefully planned in "The Apple." Two storage walls contain six closets—while there also is a large closet in the entry hall, a good sized broom closet in the kitchen and a spacious closet in the further end of the left living room wall.

Although there is no regular dining room in "The Apple," the unusually large living room (it measures 19' x 13'4") can easily serve two purposes. The further end of the living room makes the ideal location for your dining room equipment; not only is this area nearest to the kitchen but it's also well lighted and ventilated by the picture window and the two casement windows flanking it.

Of course, you can use the breakfast nook, opening off the front of the kitchen for most of your families' meals. The laundry-utility room is very well lighted by three windows; it contains doors leading to both the front and back yards. Stairs to the basement lead down from the utility room.

Both bedrooms in "The Apple" are located at the right end of the house. These rooms are of good size and reap the benefits of cross ventilation. Place the heating plant under the living room in the basement. The remaining basement can be used for storage or be converted into a playroom.

Blueprints Available Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman, and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Neglect Expensive

Roof leaks are costly. Once a roof begins to crack, bulge, blister, rot or rust, it's the greatest wisdom to have it carefully checked. For the good of your pocketbook, the stitch-in-time technique is advisable. The renewal of protective coatings is especially important at this time of year when there is stormy weather ahead.

Painting Doors

It is best to lay doors flat while painting them; otherwise the paint will not "stay put" in the corners where moldings join. It is also easier to work on a horizontal plane surface.

Don't Stint on Showers

When planning a new house, it is advisable to provide not only for a shower head over the bath tub, but also for one or more showers in separate leakproof stalls.

Tips to Remember When Buying Lot

Try to select a lot protected from street noise, factory odors and traffic dangers.

Consider carefully the area of your lot. A half acre is about all one man can look after in his spare time.

Grading should always slope down from the house. This permits water to run off rather than stand around the perimeter of the house.

Most subdivisions are zoned for the type and cost of house. Be sure your building plans coincide with requirements.

The topsoil removed for excavation should be saved for spreading over the surface after the rough grading has been done.

Don't buy a site too close to other homes. Family arguments and neighbors' blaring radios and lack of breeze on hot days can make life unpleasant.

Don't buy a city-sized lot in a rural location if the soil is heavy clay or other impermeable type—you won't have enough ground area for septic tank seepage lines.

Fireplace Plan Must Be Given Much Thought

A fireplace is an expensive feature for a home, but, like a vacation, it pays dividends in contentment and good cheer that can't be measured in money.

Maybe a fireplace does not produce much heat for a room, but it does for the heart. On that account, it's still one of the most desired of all home features.

To give its users fullest benefit, the fireplace must be one of the most carefully planned parts of the house. Here are major points to consider:

Soil conditions: A fireplace, its foundation and chimney are a concentrated load, consistently greater than that of any other part of the house. Soil conditions therefore must be suitable to take great weight.

Location within room: A fireplace can't be moved around a room like a piano or sofa. It should not be so placed that traffic from door to door has to go between it and furniture.

Clay Tile Good Material

Materials: Fireproof materials should be the first choice for the fireplace facing. One of the most satisfactory is clay tile, since it is unaffected by heat and at the same time contributes color and form to the over-all design.

Emphasis: The fireplace should be neither too big, too small nor too squat for the room. If it is too large for the room, it will "dominate" and depress people, and make them feel uncomfortable.

Facing: For fireproofing, tile or other non-combustible material used for facing the fireplace should extend at least eight inches from the sides of the fireplace opening, and at least a foot above it.

Hearth: A material that won't be affected by sparks and small embers should be used for the hearth. It should extend eight inches to a foot beyond each side of the fireplace opening.

Entrance to Basement

Access to the cellar from outside the house is particularly desirable now so widely for recreation rooms and living quarters. Safety demands a second exit in case of fire. Stairs leading directly to the yard also eliminate the necessity of carrying through the house. Steps and bulkheads can be installed at relatively little expense and will soon prove well worth the cost.

Binding Doors

Loose hinges often cause doors to bind.

Always Give Paint Thorough Stirring

Always stir the contents of a paint can before using. In the case of enamels particularly, be sure to stir the pigment thoroughly. The best procedure is to pour the top two thirds into another container and stir the remainder carefully. Then, continuing your stirring, return the poured-off liquid to the original can.

If the can has been opened before and a skim has formed on top of the can's contents, remove this whole before stirring. Should any part of the skin remain, pour the entire quantity through a strainer you obtain from your paint dealer. You can also use a piece of wire screen or an old section of hosiery for the purpose.

Removing Paint Spots

Old paint stains on brick can be removed by scrubbing with steel wool or a stiff wire brush. If the stains are fresh, they usually respond to a commercial paint remover.

Equipment Increases Usefulness of Closet

While hall closets are provided in practically all modern homes, many of them are sadly lacking in the matter of convenience. In fact, few home owners realize that the usefulness of such a closet may be greatly increased by the addition of simple and comparatively inexpensive equipment.

For example, a rack with a metal-lined trough at the bottom may be attached to the inside of the closet door, and here the family's stock of umbrellas may be stored without sacrificing valuable floor space. A metal-lined, well-ventilated chest for overcoats and rubbers may also be built in the closet.

In a household where there are several children, a mitten or glove box is another convenience. Like the rubber chest, this should be well-ventilated and divided into compartments, each labeled with the name of the owner.

Caulk the Joints

Joints between concrete porch floors and wood siding on the house should be packed with caulking compound. This will prevent moisture getting at the wood.

LOOKS LIKE NEW WHEN YOU INSTALL A CRAWFORD "MARVEL-LIFT" DOOR

Fits any garage, operates so easily a child can use it. Glides up inside garage, leaves clear opening. Not a one-piece door, all-wood, 24-panel construction. Low down payment, FHA terms. 1-year guarantee. Electronic remote control operator available.

U. S. PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are putting great stress these days on the matter of psychological warfare. Certainly it will be all to the good if we can capture the psychological initiative from the Soviet Union.

But it needs to be realized that these techniques have certain sharp limits for us which do not similarly bind the Russians.

When we are pursuing tactics which are essentially secret maneuvers, our psychological experts can operate with a fairly free hand. Elaborate explanations may be avoided.

Yet when the strategy calls for overt moves that must be publicly announced or disclosed, it is a different story. The aim may be to start something that will simply keep the enemy guessing. Still we may find such a course impractical.

The trouble is that Congress, the American people, and our allies as well, do not want to be kept guessing. They want every disclosed move spelled out in detail, every wisp of the fog of mystery dispelled.

This is inherent in the nature of democracy. We want explanations for everything and feel we are entitled to them. The case of freeing Chiang Kai-shek for operations against the Chinese Red mainland is a good example.

We hoped in that instance to worry the enemy as to what might follow. The more speculation that came after that move, the better it suited our purpose to trouble the Communists.

But immediately our own lawmakers and many of our curious friends abroad demanded to know what we planned in Asia down to the last comma. In the course of reassuring them, we eliminated all possible surprise for our enemy.

There would seem to be no escape from this pattern. So long as our psychological warfare embraces overt steps, we cannot to that extent count upon the weapon of surprise. For this element is incompatible with our ingrained habit—the mark of our freedom—of discussing everything right into the ground.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

If we are consumed with anything, in these drear and darkling days between the end of winter and the start of spring, it's with the desire to know more about Dwight D. Eisenhower, the golfer.

We're kept fully and constantly informed on those momentous things which the President must keep himself occupied with—Korea, Congress, European aid, aid to farmers, aid here, aid there.

It's all very well to know how our Chief Executive feels on the subject of inland waterways, taxes, and tariffs. But what of his love of the links?

Does he replace his divots? Is his back-swing long and easy? How goes the Chief's chip shot, the presidential putt? Is he calm in the crisis of blasting his ball from the Georgia sand trap?

We've always had the feeling that the game of golf can reveal much about a man, particularly when he feels as strongly about it as does our President.

LAST OF THE G.A.R.

Albert Woolson, 106 years old, is the last survivor of the vast army of men who answered President Abraham Lincoln's call to arms in the War Between the States. His last remaining comrade, 111-year-old James A. Hard, died recently.

What must this oldest soldier think as he recalls the days of his youth? Does he meditate on the great battles of the war which kept us the United States? Does he remember the charge of the Confederates on the positions he and his comrades held so gallantly at Gettysburg?

No war in our history was sadder than the battle between brothers and countrymen. Both sides believed fervently in their cause, both fought bravely. Now only an old man survives who wore the blue uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic. Two or three survive of the Gray. Despite the bit-

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THEY ARE PEOPLE, TOO

Professors and clergymen are people, too. They do not limit their human relations to the functional vocations by which they earn their livelihoods. They have human passions and they suffer from human foibles; they love and hate; some are wise in the ways of the world, some are stupid in many things outside their chosen spheres.

In a word, professors and clergymen are not an elite apart and different from all other citizens. Even as you and I, they are human. This discovery may shock some of them.

Recently, Congressman Harold H. Velde said something about looking into the doings of the clergy and immediately a hue and cry went forth about religious freedom. If a clergyman committed a murder, as has sometimes happened, no one relates that to the sanctity of religion. It means only that one clergyman was irreverent and permitted that human passion to mislead him. A sinner, he must take the consequences of his wrongdoing, here and hereafter, the same as any other murderer would have to.

Actually, to assume otherwise would, in itself, be a violation of the Commandments, because it would make of this servant of God a deity, a god on earth, not a man but a creature beyond man. No self-respecting clergyman of any church of God would permit anyone to so insult him.

Therefore, while several years ago, when lists of those endorsing Communist purposes appeared in the "Daily Worker," they contained few names of the clergy, today, by actual count, the clergy show up with about 50 per cent of all names. This phenomenon requires analysis and study and that is being done by those who are concerned with Communist infiltration in the United States. Several explanations are given for this:

1. Many clergymen are deeply moved by the need for peace in the world. While they are not necessarily Communists, they are going through the process of joining committees and signing petitions which are Communist-inspired and directed. Many an actor or professor got himself into trouble for joining with Communists in causes which seemed innocent and humane but were designed to harm America.

It is impossible to say that a Christian minister should not support a peace movement if that is what his conscience dictates. Yet, as a man and a citizen, whatever his vocation, when he permits himself to become a pawn in the Communist effort to destroy the American will to resist the forces for our destruction as a people, forces formerly directed by Stalin and now by Malenkov, then he becomes a peril to our civilization and, again whatever his vocation, he must suffer the consequences of his decisions.

2. In a free society there are no orthodox and no unorthodox opinions. A man may believe what he wishes to believe and may express his views as he chooses. He is responsible for his own decisions whatever they may be.

The current use of the term, "unorthodox views," is an absurdity in the American society because there are no orthodox views. No one can say what is orthodox. Was William Jennings Bryan orthodox when he ran against William McKinley? Yet Bryan led a great political party and he might have been elected President. He did serve as Secretary of State.

In a thought-controlled state, like Soviet Russia, unorthodox views lead to purges, imprisonment and even death. In the United States when men disagree, they argue, they debate. But there is no state intervention in anyone's private life, except when the American acts as an agent for a foreign power. Then he ceases to be a free man; he is a slave to his alien masters who use him to destroy us.

That has nothing to do with orthodox or unorthodox opinions. It does have to do with destructive conduct designed to break down our society. It is revolutionary action with the purpose of subjecting the minds of our people to the will of an organized conspiracy.

There was a time when men, in this country, could take a soapbox, pick a corner, and holler hatred against our way of life with impunity. It meant nothing more than a scratch on granite with a knife.

But when a foreign power uses our own sons and daughters as instruments for our destruction, then we need to know what is going on. (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PARALYZED PATIENT

I have written before of visiting a physician friend in a veterans' hospital who had suffered a coronary thrombosis. The superintendent, making a visit to patients, informed my friend not to worry about his "coronary" as he himself had had five or six, that he went to bed for a month each time, then got up and carried on with his hospital work as usual.

While it is true that patients suffering a coronary thrombosis (heart stroke) may have a number of attacks and carry on useful lives between attacks, yet when the same condition strikes the brain and a brain stroke occurs (apoplexy), the patient is usually not encouraged to get up and try to use his body and brain as with coronary thrombosis.

In Medical Press, Great Britain, Dr. Margery V. Warren states that the majority of patients who survive an attack of apoplexy with resultant paralysis can be helped by treatment and such patients present one of the most interesting medical conditions. The paralyzed patient is one who is severely handicapped physically and is greatly upset mentally so that he needs treatment under as ideal conditions as possible and in a sympathetic, stimulating and optimistic atmosphere. It is a common mistake that the hemiplegic (paralyzed) patient needs rest and quieting drugs—in fact what he really needs is encouragement to help himself, advice on his re-education, exercise in standing and later in walking, and as little sedative (quieting drugs) as possible.

"Neglected and undertreated hemiplegics almost always develop stiffness of the affected shoulder and other joints and therefore present later a much more difficult problem of rehabilitation."

The right-sided hemiplegic frequently sustains a degree of aphasia (loss of speech) and this adds greatly to his feeling of utter frustration. When he can't talk or be understood by others, he must be carefully and intelligently treated. Recovery of speech, even if only partial, greatly raises the morale of the patient.

"Those caring for such patients should be advised to frame their questions in such a way that the patient can answer by a single 'Yes' or 'No.'"

An important point for physician and family to remember is that hemiplegia (one-sided paralysis) may result from a number of conditions including a piece of tissue which has been carried from a tumor or growth from lower bowel or elsewhere. "Every hemiplegic patient should therefore be fully examined and adequately investigated before treatment is given."

Precarious Perch

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—If morale among Voice of America and other U. S. International Information Administration employees is completely shot, it's no wonder. There are now six separate investigations and reorganization studies going on over what to do with the thing.

Wisconsin Sen. Joe McCarthy's Government Operations Committee holds it up to daily scorn. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa has a Senate foreign relations subcommittee probing it. Dr. Robert L. Johnson, the new head of IIA, is trying to work it over. Nelson Rockefeller's White House Reorganization Committee is trying to reshuffle it.

President Eisenhower's psychological experts, William S. and C. D. Jackson, will make a report in May. Finally, the IIA Public Advisory Committee under Mark May of Yale is advising that the Voice be taken out of the State Department—which is exactly what ex-Senator Bill Benton wanted to do seven years ago.

Hole in the Argument

Congressmen bent on cutting taxes before the budget is balanced have come up with a new argument. Its gist is that the country would be better off with a tax cut and an unbalanced budget involving expenditures of say, $69 billion and tax receipts of say, $64 billion than it would be with taxes kept high and a balanced budget of around $74 billion.

The plea is to cut both expenses, and taxes, rather than keep taxes up to a higher expenditure level. While there is a belief that the lower expenditure and lower tax levels would put less of a strain on the country, the catch in this argument is that any unbalancing of the budget adds to the national debt, increase government interest requirements and adds to the inflationary pressures.

Cold War Word Puzzle

There's a big, double-acrostic cross-word puzzle contest going on to find a new name for "psychological warfare" that does not imply that it is an aggressive part of a cold war, or identified with warfare propaganda of any kind. President Eisenhower himself gave the tip-off on this when he told a press conference he did not like the name "psychological warfare," but that nobody had thought up a better name for it yet.

The catch in the old name is that it implies that the United States is not promoting peace. The Communists on the other hand—who are the real aggressors in this business—have successfully put over the idea that all their propaganda is for peace.

State Department's former line for Voice of America and other international information programs was that it was waging a "Campaign of Truth." That was all right as far as it went. But what's wanted now is a name for a peace crusade that it implies even more than the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Two Sides to Draft Story

President Eisenhower's campaign promise to find some way to end the Korean war ran into its first stumbling block when Gen. James A. Van Fleet came home and advocated to Congress the extension of the U. S. Selective Service to three years. President Eisenhower summarily turned it down.

General Van Fleet's point of view as a military commander is equally sound, however, in advocating that if this war is going to be won, more effort and more sacrifice will have to be put in it. Taxpayers, draftees and their parents don't want the question answered this hard way.

Should We Look Ahead?

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey complains that one of the reasons 1,400,000 fathers have been deferred from military service is that it's now scientifically possible to tell that their wives are pregnant much earlier than in the old days. All these prospective fathers bring in medical certificates to show that their wives are about to have children and there's nothing the draft board can do but grant exemptions.

"What we are going to have to solve," says General Hershey, "is the question of whether raising a substitute for the armed forces of the future is more important than service now."

A free-enterprise propaganda answer to the Communist peace congress held in Vienna last year may be provided in May by the biennial Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce. This meeting will likewise be held in Vienna, on the edge of the Iron Curtain. A thousand businessmen from 50 free countries are expected to attend.

H. J. Heinz, II, Philip D. Reed, Thomas J. Watson, Warren Lee Pierson and other U. S. business leaders will head the American delegation. The theme of the meeting will be "World Trade Is Everybody's Business," and one purpose will be to argue the case of dynamic capitalism—in opposition to communism—as the key to future world progress.

The following sign, slogan, motto or whatever you want to call it is posted on the desk lamp of a new stenographer in the U.S. Treasury:

"A sensible girl is one who is more sensible than she looks, because a sensible girl has more sense than to look sensible."

One of the big jobs of the secretaries of the army, navy and air force will be an attempt to simplify military weapons. This has long been a pet project of President Eisenhower.

As a commanding general in the field, he found that planes, tanks, guns and other weapons were entirely too complicated by gadgets. They were nice gadgets to have, but they weren't essential. The way the jeep had been loaded down with extras offers a typical example. It's the extra gadgets that add to the cost.

Eisenhower's idea is that control weapons might have all the fancy gear. The actual combat vehicles and weapons could then be simplified at a great saving in costs.

If racial segregation were outlawed in all the church (body) simultaneously, there probably would be little immediate change in the patterns of church attendance.

—Dr. Liston Pope, Yale Divinity School dean.

I certainly think that we have a very efficient cabinet.

—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.-O.).

Under its new leadership, the federal government may soon be re-examining its fiscal relationships with the states. This may result in a reversal of some of the centralization trends of the past two decades.

—New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

CONCERNING A WEDDING

GIFT

The propriety of returning a mother's gift to her daughter is the subject of this letter: "The daughter of an intimate friend of mine is soon to be married. Several years ago this friend gave me a set of beautiful crystal goblets and wine glasses. My question is, 'Would it be out of place for me to give these glasses to her daughter for a wedding present?' Due to illness, I cannot entertain any more and have no need of these beautiful glasses. Furthermore, they would be a more expensive gift than I could afford to buy now."

If you explain to the bride's mother why you are parting with these lovely glasses, she would certainly be pleased to have them go to her daughter.

A Golden Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother and father will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and we, their children, would like to give a large reception at one of the hotels. However, the wording of the invitations has us puzzled. We are four children, two are married and two single. Will you please tell me how the invitations can be worded so we all are included?

In celebration of the Golden Wedding of

The Clothes of the Ushers

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon at an evening wedding. The groom and his attendants will wear tuxedos. However, several of the ushers do not own dinner clothes and will have to rent them. Will you please tell me if the bridegroom is supposed to pay for the rental of these clothes?

Answer: No. The ushers are expected to provide their own clothes.

Should a lady offer her hand when greeting friends or being introduced? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," answers these questions. Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

The Forest of Friendship

How poor we should be without our friends. Earth provides us with no yardstick for measuring what it means to us that in the rough and tumble of life there are other human beings to steady us, other hearts that beat with ours in the joys and in the sorrows of life, other hands that minister to us in our dire necessities. How could we possibly get along without our friends? As William Feather once put it: "I would hate to have a million dollars and be without friends." What he meant to suggest is that all kinds of money would indeed be a paltry substitute for a real friend.

Once when someone asked Charles Kingsley the secret of his wonderful life he replied: "I had a friend." By that reply he paid tribute to one of life's greatest as well as one of life's most beautiful assets.

How shall we express what friends mean to us? I like the suggestion of a figure that F. W. Wilson has employed to hint at this fathomless ministry of friendship. He thinks of friends as a surrounding forest that helps to hold the individual tree up and to protect it from the lasting fury of the storm. "The friends we make during a lifetime," he writes, "may be compared to a forest. Everyone has his forest of friends. Some forests cover much more territory than others, but every individual has his forest, be it large or small. Such forests are made up of many kinds of trees. Here and there may be found great oaks, which acts as a shelter in our times of storm. They are, invaluable, and as it does for the oak of the woods, it is never the same again. We keep twigs and leaves of remembrance from such giants in our Forest of Friendship, that we may never forget them."

Bill on Phone Use

Albany, March 21 (AP)—It will be a crime for a user of a party telephone line to refuse to give up the circuit in an emergency, if Gov. Dewey agrees with the Legislature's action. The Senate gave final legislative approval yesterday to a bill to make such an action malicious mischief. It also would be a crime to obtain use of a line by stating falsely that it was needed in an emergency. For violation of either provision, the maximum sentence would be two years in prison.

Don't sniff too hard at the bidding of today's hand. Nobody knows how to bid a freak two-suiter with absolute assurance, and when this problem is complicated by an opponent's shut-out bid, you need luck as well as good management to land on your feet.

North certainly had to show both of his strong major suits and West's high opening bid made it necessary for North to show his two suits at a very high level. As it turned out, South was very wise to insist on playing the hand at clubs.

He knew that his long club suit would be worth five or six tricks at a club contract, but might well be completely worthless at any other contract.

East certainly cannot be blamed for doubling five clubs. With the ace and king of trumps, East could be quite sure that declarer was not going to make any overtricks!

East hoped to win a spade trick or that his partner might come up with some slight defensive value.

South was in a pretty chancy contract, but he played the hand boldly and deserved his good result. He won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond with dummy's only trump, and cashed the ace of hearts in order to discard his last diamond.

Having thus disposed of the diamond threat, declarer ruffed a heart to get into his own hand, and led a low trump, losing to East's king. East returned a low heart with every appearance of innocence, but South was not deceived.

The trump situation was perfectly clear from the fact that East had been forced to win the low trump with the king of clubs. South therefore ruffed the heart return with his queen of trumps, shutting West out.

It was now easy to return another low trump, dropping the jack and the ace on the same trick. After drawing trumps, it was safe for declarer to enter dummy with the ace of spades in order to discard his remaining spade on dummy's top heart.

Wood Firm Burns

New York, March 21 (AP)—A spectacular blaze flared along the East river in Whitestone, Queens early today for an hour and a half before being brought under control by two fireboats and land equipment. Observers said flames shot skyward 50 to 100 feet as the fire gutted the one-story Whitestone Wood Products Co., Inc., at 154th street and the East river. Also damaged by the blaze were the Aircraft Sink Corp. and the Fairchild Recording Equipment Company. Damage was termed "considerable" but no immediate estimate was made. No injuries were reported. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST
(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

CONCERNING A WEDDING GIFT

The propriety of returning a mother's gift to her daughter is the subject of this letter: "The daughter of an intimate friend of mine is soon to be married. Several years ago this friend gave me a set of beautiful crystal goblets and wine glasses. My question is, 'Would it be out of place for me to give these glasses to her daughter for a wedding present?' Due to illness, I cannot entertain any more and have no need of these beautiful glasses. Furthermore, they would be a more expensive gift than I could afford to buy now."

If you explain to the bride's mother why you are parting with these lovely glasses, she would certainly be pleased to have them go to her daughter.

A Golden Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother and father will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and we, their children, would like to give a large reception at one of the hotels. However, the wording of the invitations has us puzzled. We are four children, two are married and two single. Will you please tell me how the invitations can be worded so we all are included?

Answer:
In celebration of the Golden Wedding of

Mr. and Mrs. John Browne their family
request the pleasure of (names written in) company at the Biltmore Hotel
on Saturday evening,
the eighteenth of April,
at eight o'clock.

The Clothes of the Ushers

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon at an evening wedding. The groom and his attendants will wear tuxedos. However, several of the ushers do not own dinner clothes and will have to rent them. Will you please tell me if the bridegroom is supposed to pay for the rental of these clothes?

Answer: No. The ushers are expected to provide their own clothes.

Should a lady offer her hand when greeting friends or being introduced? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her letter E-17, "Introductions," answers these questions. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

The Forest of Friendship

How poor we should be without our yardstick for measuring what it means to us that in the rough and tumble of life there are other human beings to steady us, other hearts that beat with ours in the joys and in the sorrows of life, other hands that minister to us in our dire necessities. How could we possibly get along without our friends? As William Feather once put it: "I would hate to have a million dollars and be without friends." That he meant to suggest is that all kinds of money would indeed be a paltry substitute for a real friend.

Once when someone asked Charles Kingsley the secret of his wonderful life he replied: "I had a friend." By that reply he paid tribute to one of life's greatest as well as one of life's most beautiful assets.

How shall we express what friends mean to us? I like the suggestiveness of a figure that F. T. Wilson has employed to hint at this fathomless ministry of friendship. He thinks of friends as a surrounding forest that helps to hold the individual tree up and to protect it from the lashing fury of the storm. "The friends we make during a lifetime," he writes, "may be compared to a forest. Everyone has his Forest of Friendship. Some forests cover much more territory than others, but every individual has his forest, be it large or small. Such forests are made up of many kinds of trees. Here and there may be found great oaks, which acts as a shelter in our times of storm. They are, invaluable and as it does for the oak of the woods, it requires years for the oaks in our Forest of Friendship to reach their maturity. Such are the staunch friends to whom we turn when the heat of the day overtakes us and when we are all but blown away by the wind of fate. When such an oak falls, under the stroke of death, a great space is left in the sky of our little lives, and it is never the same again. We keep twigs and leaves of remembrance from such giants in our Forest of Friendship, that we may never forget them."

Unwanted Browns Keep Winning, While Big Slump Grips Cardinals

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the Cardinals have a new owner and the Browns aren't shifting to Baltimore you might expect the baseball situation in St. Louis would be back to normal.

It isn't. Take a look at the teams' spring records. The Cardinals, perennial pennant threats and the last National League club to win the World Series, have won only three of 14 spring games.

The Browns, who rarely threaten anybody with their brilliance, are sporting a healthy 10-4 record. Spring results don't mean much and the Browns would be the first to agree that seven of their 10 successes have come against Pacific Coast League, rather than major league, opposition.

But a little early momentum always helps a team. The Cards had a poor spring a year ago and didn't get up to the .500 mark in league play until mid-June. Baseball men virtually have worn out the saying that a victory in late April counts just as much in the standings as one in late September. The only Browns team ever to win a pennant proved this one in capital letters. The 1944 Browns won their first nine games, an American League record.

Milwaukee Wins

Yesterday the Cardinals took their worst licking of the spring as Milwaukee won for the first time since coming into the National League, 11-2. To top it off, young Stu Miller, who set the league on fire late last season, bore the brunt of the 17-hit assault and left in the fourth inning with a pulled shoulder muscle.

The Browns, on the other hand, got revenge for their only major league loss of the spring as they beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-4. Virgil Trucks and Don Larsen pitched for the Browns and Larsen's sixth inning home run proved the eventual victory margin.

The Philadelphia Athletics fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the Boston Red Sox when they made two errors in the 10th inning. A homer by Dick Gernert of the Sox with two out in the ninth had sent the game into extra innings.

Yanks Pound Phils

The New York Yankees put on their best hitting display to date, pounding three Philadelphia Phils' pitchers for 16 hits and an 8-3 victory. The loss was the Phils' 11th in 14 games.

Six home runs and two costly errors played a big part in a weird 13-12 triumph by Detroit over Cincinnati. The Tigers scored six runs in the first inning and then had to rally for five in the ninth to win. Walt Dropo of the Tigers homered twice.

Ralph Kiner signed his Pittsburgh contract for $75,000 and immediately went into the Pirate lineup against the Cuban Stars at Havana. He struck out, singled, doubled and grounded out in four trips to the plate as the Pirates lost, 5-3.

The Hollywood Stars, champions of the Pacific Coast League, walloped the Chicago White Sox, 12-2, in a night game at Hollywood. Other scheduled games were rained out.

Robbins and Fownes Gain Seniors Final

St. Augustine, Fla., March 21 (AP)—A New Yorker and a Tennessee meet today in the final round of the American Senior Golf Association tournament.

Thomas C. Robbins of Larchmont, N. Y., and Judd Brumley of Greenville, Tenn., won 5 and 4 victories in the semifinals Friday for their shot at the seniors' crown.

Robbins defeated Bert Edwards of Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., and Brumley eliminated James A. Fownes of Winter Park, Fla.

Kuster New ABC Prexy

Chicago, March 21 (AP)—Maine's first entrant in the history of the American Bowling Congress, the Presque Isle Air Force Base Sabres, tonight will engage in its three-game stint in the booster division of the Golden Jubilee tournament in the Coliseum.

Election of William Kuster, 62, of Kansas City, Mo., as president of the ABC climaxed yesterday's nine-hour long convention held in conjunction with the tournament. During this time delegates from every part of the country accepted nearly all of the 50 proposals to change the rules of bowling.

Among the more important changes was the empowering of city associations to hike tournament entry fees as much as $5 an event, if they so desire, and the recognition of high scores by league members even when a legal team isn't present.

Previously, city associations couldn't charge more than $3 for entry fees per event, while, for example, if a player rolled a 300 game in a league when the minimum number of players weren't present he wouldn't receive recognition from the Congress.

Rejected was a proposal to make the tie-game rule, passed last year at Milwaukee, optional. Now it's mandatory that each team receive a half credit for a win and a loss in the standings instead of rolling off the tie.

Also rejected was a proposal by Sam Castagna, of Hurley, Wis., to change the system of scoring.

Knicks Survive First Round

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Knickerbockers were safely past the first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs today and mightily thankful they'll have five days of rest before meeting either Syracuse or Boston in the Eastern Division final.

The Knicks completed their first round chore by defeating Baltimore, 90-81, last night.

Boston holds a 1-0 edge in its series with the Syracuse Nationals and they meet on the Celtics home floor today. If a third game is necessary it'll be played at Syracuse tomorrow.

Meantime, Fort Wayne's Pistons went one up in their best of three series with Rochester, defeating the Royals 84-77 with a last period surge.

Gilliam-Johnson

Toledo, March 21 (AP)—Tough Billy Gilliam battles Harold Johnson tonight in a fight to be telecast over the ABC network at 9 p. m. (EST). Johnson, 24, from Philadelphia, is a 9-5 favorite over Gilliam, a rugged mixer who shows little suaveness. He will outweight Johnson, 210 pounds to 177, and his reach will extend four inches more.

ABC Moguls Consider 50 New Rules

Delegates to the annual American Bowling Congress convention in Chicago today will consider some 50 proposed amendments to the ABC constitution, rules and regulations.

Following are some of the proposed changes the delegates will be asked to review:

Authorize ABC secretary to recognize associations under a name other than a city or town.

Outline conditions under which a proprietor may plane or resurface his own bowling alleys.

Provide optional plan for selecting city tournament events.

Increase maximum prize fee limit in city tournaments from the present $3 to $5.

Allow an association to permit bowlers to compete more than once in the five-man event in closed tournaments restricted to bona fide members of the association only.

Another proposal would allow multiple participation in the five-man event in all tournaments excepting international, national and state events which require a regular sanction.

Make it optional either to embed markings and designs used for spot bowling or stamp them on the bare wood.

Define the kind of indentations or depressions which may appear on the surface of a regulation bowling ball.

Place the selection of the ABC tournament site in the hands of the delegates at the annual convention.

Prescribe a definite date on which to base the average for entry in the ABC tournament booster division.

Revise the system for scoring the game of tenpins.

Set the maximum prize fee for entry in tournament competition at an amount not to exceed $50.

Clarify the present rule regulating distribution of fiscal year team awards to reduce the possibility of duplicating awards to the same men.

Permit scores to be recognized for ABC awards when one or two members of a team bowl but forfeit games to opponents for not having required number of men to constitute a legal team.

Continue present tie game rule but allow a league to adopt a roll-off rule.

Delete the present tie game rule and reinstate roll-off system formerly used.

Permit leagues to adopt rule governing transfer of players from team to team.

Outline the conditions under which changes in two-man team lineups as reported for tournaments on the official entry blank may be permitted.

Make it optional for a tournament association to hold play-offs or declare co-champions in the event of a first place tie.

Require two-man and individual events or a combination of the two to sanction.

Set the maximum fee for entry in a paid all-events prize list at $3 for all tournaments.

Authorize issuance of a sanction for variety type tournaments.

Hawkins Leads At Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Two young golfers who are in the habit of collecting their tournament winnings near the bottom of the prize list—if at all—are pace setters going into today's second round of the Jacksonville Open and aiming at the $2,000 top money.

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., shot 33-32-65 Friday, grabbing the lead with an eagle duce on the last hole. He had six birdies, but lost a stroke by three-putting the sixths green. His 65 equalled the course record.

Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa., shot 33-33-66 for second place with 12 pars and six birdies.

Truex Surprises Dwyer in Mile

Cleveland, March 21 (AP)—Ohio State's Lenny Truex today held the distinction of cooling off the hottest miler of the winter—Freddie Dwyer, Villanova senior.

Dwyer had eight straight victories up to last night, but he wasn't even close when slim Lenny from Lima, O., broke the tape before 8:29 a.m. at the 13th annual Knights of Columbus track meet in Cleveland's Arena.

Truex, who switched from the 1,000-yard run to the mile the night before the meet, took the lead about halfway. Dwyer set the early pace, faded in the stretch and finished 15 yards back in fourth. Winning time was four minutes, 11.8 seconds—four seconds over Truex's mark in Milwaukee last week and slower than Dwyer's previous best—4:08.1.

Defending champion Fred Wilt of the FBI drove from fourth to second on the next-to-last lap, but Truex outspurred him to win by five yards. Lt. Warren Dreutzler of Fort Lee, Va., took third.

Unwanted Browns Keep Winning, While Big Slump Grips Cardinals

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the Cardinals have a new owner and the Browns aren't shifting to Baltimore you might expect the baseball situation in St. Louis would be back to normal.

It isn't.

Take a look at the teams' spring records. The Cardinals, perennial pennant threats and the last National League club to win the World Series, have won only three of 14 spring games.

The Browns, who rarely threaten anybody with their brilliance, are sporting a healthy 10-4 record. Spring results don't mean much and the Browns would be the first to agree that seven of their 10 successes have come against Pacific Coast League, rather than major league, opposition.

But a little early momentum always helps a team. The Cards had a poor spring a year ago and didn't get up to the 500 mark in league play until mid-June. Baseball men virtually have worn out the saying that a victory in late April counts just as much in the standings as one in late September. The only Browns team ever to win a pennant proved this one in capital letters. The 1944 Browns won their first nine games, an American League record.

Milwaukee Wins

Yesterday the Cardinals took their worst licking of the spring as Milwaukee won for the first time since coming into the National League, 11-2. To top it off, young Stu Miller, who set the league on fire late last season, bore the brunt of the 17-hit assault and left in the fourth inning with a pulled shoulder muscle.

The Browns, on the other hand, got revenge for their only major league loss of the spring as they beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-4. Virgil Trucks and Don Larsen pitched for the Browns and Larsen's sixth inning home run proved the eventual victory margin.

The Philadelphia Athletics fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the Boston Red Sox when they made two errors in the 10th inning. A homer by Dick Gernert of the Sox with two out in the ninth had sent the game into extra innings.

Yanks Pound Phils

The New York Yankees put on their best hitting display to date, pounding three Philadelphia Phils' pitchers for 16 hits and an 8-3 victory. The loss was the Phils' 11th in 14 games.

Six home runs and two costly errors played a big part in a weird 13-12 triumph by Detroit over Cincinnati. The Tigers scored six runs in the first inning and then had to rally for five in the ninth to win. Walt Dropo of the Tigers homered twice.

Ralph Kiner signed his Pittsburgh contract for $75,000 and immediately went into the Pirate lineup against the Cuban Stars at Havana. He struck out, singled, doubled and grounded out in four trips to the plate as the Pirates lost, 5-3.

The Hollywood Stars, champions of the Pacific Coast League, walloped the Chicago White Sox, 12-2, in a night game at Hollywood. Other scheduled games were rained out.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 21 (AP)—A New Yorker and a Tennessean meet today in the final round of the American Senior Golf Association tournament.

Thomas C. Robbins of Larchmont, N. Y., and Judd Brumley of Greenville, Tenn., won 5 and 4 victories in the semifinals Friday for their shot at the seniors' crown.

Kuster New ABC Prexy

Chicago, March 21 (AP)—Maine's first entrant in the history of the American Bowling Congress, Presque Isle Air Force Base Sabres, tonight will engage in its three-game stint in the booster division of the Golden Jubilee tournament in the Coliseum.

Election of William Kuster, 62, of Kansas City, Mo., as president of the ABC climaxed yesterday's nine-hour long convention held in conjunction with the tournament. During this time delegates from every part of the country accepted nearly all of the 50 proposals to change the rules of bowling.

Also the more important changes was the empowering of city associations to hike tournament entry fees as much as $5 an event, if they so desire, and the recognition of high scores by league members even when a legal team isn't present.

Previously, city associations couldn't charge more than $3 for entry fees per event, while, for example, a player rolled a 300 game in a league when the minimum number of players weren't present he wouldn't receive recognition from the Congress.

Rejected was a proposal to make the tie-game rule, passed only last year at Milwaukee, optional. Now it's mandatory that each team receive a half credit for a win and a loss in the standings instead of rolling off the tie.

Also rejected was a proposal by Sam Castagna, of Hurley, Wis., to change the system of scoring.

Knicks Survive First Round

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Knickerbockers were safely past the first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs today and mighty thankful they'll have five days of rest before meeting either Syracuse or Boston in the Eastern Division final.

The Knicks completed their first round chore by defeating Baltimore, 90-81, last night.

Boston holds a 1-0 edge in its series with the Syracuse Nationals and they meet on the Celtics home floor today. If a third game is necessary it'll be played at Syracuse tomorrow.

Meantime, Fort Wayne's Pistons went one up in their best of three series with Rochester, defeating the Royals 84-77 with a last period spurge.

Gilliam-Johnson

Toledo, March 21 (AP)—Tough Billy Gilliam battles Harold Johnson tonight in a fight to be telecast over the ABC network at 9 p. m. (EST). Johnson, 24, from Philadelphia, is a 9-5 favorite over Gilliam, a rugged mixer who shows little savagery. He will outweigh Johnson, 210 pounds to 177, and his reach will extend four inches more.

ABC Moguls Consider 50 New Rules

Delegates to the annual American Bowling Congress convention in Chicago today will consider some 50 proposed amendments to the ABC constitution, rules and regulations.

Following are some of the proposed changes the delegates will be asked to review:

Authorize ABC secretary to recognize associations under a name other than a city or town.

Outline conditions under which a proprietor may plane or resurface his own bowling alleys.

Provide optional plan for selecting city tournament events.

Increase maximum prize fee limit in city tournaments from the present $3 to $5.

Allow an association to permit bowlers to compete more than once in the five-man event in closed tournaments restricted to bona fide members of the association only.

Another proposal would allow multiple participation in the five-man event in all tournaments excepting international, national and state events which require a regular sanction.

Make it optional either to embed markings and designs used for spot bowling or stamp them on the bare wood.

Define the kind of indentations or depressions which may appear on the surface of a regulation bowling ball.

Place the selection of the ABC tournament site in the hands of the delegates at the annual convention.

Prescribe a definite date on which to base the average for entry in the ABC tournament booster division.

Revise the system for scoring the game of tenpins.

Set the maximum prize fee for entry in tournament competition at an amount not to exceed $50.

Clarify the present rule regulating distribution of fiscal year team awards to reduce the possibility of duplicating awards to the same team.

Permit scores to be recognized for ABC awards when one or two members of a team bowl but forfeit games to opponents for not having required number of men to constitute a legal team.

Continue present tie game rule but allow a league to adopt a roll-off rule.

Delete the present tie game rule and reinstate roll-off system formerly used.

Permit leagues to adopt rule governing transfer of players from team to team.

Outline the conditions under which changes in two-man team lineups as reported for tournaments on the official entry blank may be permitted.

Delete it optional for a tournament association to hold play-offs or declare co-champions in the event of a first place tie.

Require two-man and individual events or a combination of the two to sanction.

Set the maximum fee for entry in a paid all-events prize list at $3 for all tournaments.

Authorize issuance of a sanction for variety type tournaments.

Joust With Bibber Is One of Roughest

Put Don Evans in the ring and regardless of the opposition, the wrestling spectator is guaranteed a battle royal.

The Flatbush farm operator, who is known in the trade as the "Kingston Killer" committed mayhem on rough and tough Bibber McCoy in last night's feature at the municipal auditorium.

So impressive was Don's showing that he has been booked for next Friday's card which also will feature a tag team match.

Evans disposed of McCoy, the ex-Holy Cross lineman, in straight falls in one of the roughest matches ever witnessed here. It was Evans' first outing in several months, following a leg injury in a Canadian bout.

Before the riotous 32-minute brawl had terminated in straight falls victory for Evans, the police flying chairs and spectators had figured prominently in the events leading up to McCoy's destruction.

The "Killer" was awarded the first fall in 18:38 by Referee Willie Glickman when McCoy tossed Evans out of the ring, fired three chairs at him and refused to let Don re-enter the ring.

At 13:04 of the second fall, Evans retaliated by hoisting McCoy among the spectators, then bounced him merrily off the ropes three times before applying a body press.

Henning Wins

Lee Henning, 250, of Iowa, won two out of three falls from Jim Austeri, 220, of Rome, Italy in the 45-minute semi-final.

Henning felled Austeri with a body press in 10 minutes for the first fall. Austeri retaliated in 7:40 before Henning took the clincher with an airplane spin at 5:08.

Pedro Godoy, 228, of South America, won a split decision over veteran Eddie King, 222, Poughkeepsie, in the 30-minute time limit opener.

Officials for the card were: Willie Glickman, Albany, referee; Tony Muscatello, Troy, and Barney Williams, Highland, judges; Fred Eisler, Kingston, timer; and Dick McCarthy, announcer.

Justice Herbert D. Hamm of State Supreme Court set Goldstein's bail, which was furnished by the Peerless Casualty Company of New York city.

Hamm cleared the way for Goldstein's bail Monday when he granted the 55-year-old taxi operator a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Goldstein was convicted Feb. 11 of giving $100 to District Attorney-elect John N. McLaren in December, 1949, in an attempt to obtain tips on any gambling raids. He had been indicted by the extraordinary grand jury probing vice in Columbia county.

McLaren testified at the trial that he returned the money several days later. He has not been charged.

Goldstein was sentenced to serve five to 10 years in Clinton Prison at Dannemora.

Pupils Haze Driver

Hillside, N. J., March 21 (AP)—A new bus driver got a hazing yesterday when he asked his junior high school pupil passengers to help him out with directions. They gave directions all right—and the bus wound up several miles from its Coe avenue school destination. After an hour's delay, the unidentified driver finally got his charges back where they started from. He just ousted them from the bus and drove off. Police got the pupils rounded up and back to school.

Says Germans Were Pilots

Berlin, March 21 (AP)—A report reached Berlin from the Soviet zone today that the jet fighters which shot down a British bomber March 12 were piloted by Germans. The Spandauer Volksblatt, a Conservative British sector newspaper, said it had learned of the report from East German contacts. Allied airmen were unable to confirm or deny that the Russians may be training East German Communist "air police" in flying the MIG-15s.

No Cause Verdict Favors Bus Line In $200,000 Suit

After deliberating over eight hours, the jury in the $200,000 negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Mrs. Molly Waltman, as executrix of the estate of her husband, Samuel Waltman of Newburgh, against the Central Greyhound Lines and William Herman Shutter, returned a verdict in favor of the bus company of no cause of action.

An action brought by Shutter, the driver of the bus, for $15,000 against the Waltman estate, had been adjourned during the trial and that matter was not submitted to the jury.

Waltman, who conducted an apple buying business at Milton, was fatally injured on August 16, 1951, when his car traveling east over Milton turnpike was in collision with a bus northbound on Route 9W.

Mrs. Waltman sought to recover damages for the death on the theory the bus was traveling at an excessive rate of speed and had been responsible for the accident.

Cook and Cook appeared for the Greyhound Bus Corporation and Rusk and Rusk, with N. LeVan Hayer appeared for the Waltman estate.

Prisoner Release

Kov has sent orders to the Soviet satellite states, including Germany, that all air war criminals should be forgotten for the present.

Despite eastern zone threats of dire consequences for Berlin if the West German Parliament ratified the allied-Bonn peace treaty, there was little strong Communist reaction to Thursday's Lower House vote of approval.

The Soviet promise of action in the case of nine British civilians and one Irish missionary held in North Korea seemed of special significance. Previous British appeals on behalf of the group were ignored by the late Prime Minister Stalin's Kremlin regime.

Seek Affirmative Solution
The foreign office said the promise was made in a note delivered here Wednesday that declared:

"The Soviet Foreign Ministry will take up the matter with the Korean People's Democratic Republic and will also take the necessary steps in order that this question may find an affirmative solution."

The British group includes three diplomats, among them, Vyvan Holt, former British minister in Seoul. The others were identified by the foreign office as:

George Blake, vice consul; Norman Philip Owen, legation clerk; Bishop Cecil Cooper, bishop of Korea; Father Hunt, Father Lee and Sister Mary Clare, all of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; Philip Dean, Correspondent for the London Observer, and Father Quinlan of Ireland.

Two Questions Raised
The Russian gesture raised two questions:

Whether a similar release might be arranged for American civilians interned by the Communists in Korea?

And whether it might lead to a move by the North Koreans and Chinese Communists to settle the last remaining issue blocking a Korean truce—exchange of war prisoners.

Although not unduly optimistic, nearly all foreign diplomats in Moscow agree that encouraging signs are in the air. Moscow sources felt that Malenkov would look favorably on a meeting with Eisenhower to settle some of the controversial issues that have been threatening world peace.

Industrial Club Elects Officers; To Sponsor Course

At this week's meeting of the Industrial Management Club in the YMCA, William Ewing was elected president and the following slate of officers chosen to serve with him: First vice president, Minford Overfield; second vice president, David Cates; treasurer, Joseph A. Brooks; recording secretary, Thomas Turk; executive secretary, Burt Tandy; directors, H. W. Wiggins and Joseph Winter.

Entertainment for the evening was Don and Jan Herrick and their marionettes.

The Industrial Management Club will sponsor a labor relations course offered by the Extension Division of Cornell University through the New York State Department of Education. Members and friends are invited to enroll April 14, at 7 p. m. at the vocational school. Information may be obtained by calling Tandy at 1100.

Arlo M. Brees will be the guest speaker for April 16.

News Guild Proposes Supervisor Clarification

Washington, March 21 (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild (CIO) says it wants the nation's basic labor law to define supervisors more closely.

Irving Leichter, Guild counsel, made this proposal and one other yesterday to the House Labor Committee, which is considering proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley Act.

Leichter said the law should be amended to revert to procedure under the old Wagner Act, by which the National Labor Relations Board could order elections on union representation without first conducting full hearings or investigation into what employees should be allowed to vote.

The Taft-Hartley Act allows elections before hearings only if both sides consent.

Leichter said present definitions of supervisors were so broad as to constitute "probably the single greatest obstacle to effective collective bargaining." Supervisors do not vote in representation elections.

Tobey Blasts . . .

he said and added: "McLeod is a very truthful man."

McCarthy did not elaborate on this but said his information "is in complete accord with what Sen. McCarran said."

McCarran told the Senate yesterday that McLeod, after viewing an FBI report on Bohlen, concluded he could not clear him for the Moscow post. McCarran said McLeod's judgment was "summarily overridden" by Dulles.

Wiley Sees Action Monday

Bohlen, who speaks Russian fluently and served as interpreter at the Yalta conference, was approved unanimously by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after it heard Dulles' personal evaluation of his FBI file. Committee chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) who sat at Dulles' right during the news conference yesterday, said he was confident the nomination would come up as scheduled in the Senate Monday.

Dulles told the reporters he had informed President Eisenhower of all material that might be termed derogatory in Bohlen's file, and asserted, as he did to the Senate Committee, there was nothing in it which cast any doubt on him as a loyalty and security risk. Eisenhower, at his meeting with newsmen Thursday, said he thought the selection of Bohlen was a good idea.

McLeod made no attempt to evaluate the evidences, Dulles said, but called his attention to certain passages. And Dulles said there were no differences between McLeod and himself on the final evaluation.

Dulles said he and McLeod are working in complete harmony and McLeod thought his presentation of the Bohlen case to the committee was a fair one.

Drag River 10th Day in Hunt for New Paltz Man

The hard, tedious job of dragging the Wallkill river near New Paltz in search of the body of an aged man entered its tenth day this morning.

State police of the Highland station and members of Ulster County Sheriff Cluett Schantz staff continued to probe the river bottom today, as they have whenever conditions permitted since March 12. At various times during the period they were hampered by driving rain, high water, and fog. The dragging operation, conducted from small boats, involves the use of grappling hooks drawn across the river bottom. Creeves, tree roots and other irregularities in the river bed provide difficult snags which can keep a body out of reach of the hooks.

Use Dynamite

On Friday, troopers detonated several dynamite charges in the hopes of "stirring up" the roots and dislodging the body, but with negative results. The authorities are searching for Charles Deyo, 71, of Springtown road, New Paltz. He has been missing from his home since Wednesday, March 11. There is no definite assurance that Deyo actually drowned in the river, but evidence was too strong to be ignored.

Launched Boat March 11

Neighbors told authorities that Deyo had just completed the construction of his own rowboat and launched it for the first time on March 11. According to one version, he had gone out to set fish nets.

The following morning, Deyo's boat was located, upset in the river near Camp St. Agnes, with no one aboard, and it was then that grappling operations were begun.

First official race course in the United States was laid out on Long Island in 1665.

Will Repeat Challenge

United Nations, March 21 (AP)—The United States prepared today to again challenge Russia to prove recent Kremlin "peace talk" by showing effective cooperation in the UN toward disarmament. Informed American sources said the U. S. delegation here found no satisfaction in the answer it got Thursday from Russia's Valerian A. Zorin to the initial challenge offered by Ambassador Ernest A. Gross. Gross said he certainly would repeat the challenge—framed earlier this week after high-level consultations in Washington. He expressed hope Zorin would give some other reply than the mere charge that the American questions were "slandorous" and "artificial."

The dragging operation, conducted from small boats, involves the use of grappling hooks drawn across the river bottom. Crevices, tree roots and other irregularities in the river bed provide difficult snags which can keep a body out of reach of the hooks.

Use Dynamite
On Friday, troopers detonated several dynamite charges in the hopes of "stirring up" the roots and dislodging the body, but with negative results.

The authorities are searching for Charles Deyo, 71, of Springtown road, New Paltz. He has been missing from his home since Wednesday, March 11.

There is no definite assurance that Deyo actually drowned in the river, but evidence was too strong to be ignored.

Launched Boat March 11

Neighbors told authorities that Deyo had just completed the construction of his own rowboat and launched it for the first time on March 11. According to one version, he had gone out to set fish nets.

The following morning, Deyo's boat was located, upset in the river near Camp St. Agnes, with no one aboard and it was then that grappling operations were begun.

First official race course in the United States was laid out on Long Island in 1665.

Will Repeat Challenge

United Nations, March 21 (AP)—The United States prepared today to again challenge Russia to prove recent Kremlin "peace talk" by showing effective cooperation in the UN toward disarmament. Informed American sources said the U. S. delegation here found no satisfaction in the answer it got Thursday from Russia's Valerian A. Zorin to the initial challenge offered by Ambassador Ernest A. Gross. Gross said he certainly would repeat the challenge—framed earlier this week after high-level consultations in Washington. He expressed hope Zorin would give some other reply than the mere charge that the American questions were "slandorous" and "artificial."

Wilson over what Morse called a proposal to sell the federal power projects to private utilities. Morse told the Senate yesterday that he believed Benson was "off beam" in his plan to have the one-time defense mobilization director, not the present secretary of defense, to give "a certain atmosphere of respectability" to the idea. Wilson, at his home in Scarsdale, N. Y., retorted that Morse "is just off his beam when he says I was 'induced' into making the proposal."

However, Dr. Charles A. Renouard, who operates a New York city school of embalmers and is regarded as the dean of American embalmers, said that while results of tests with the fluid were "amazing" he could not assert it would preserve the dead indefinitely.

U. S. Marine Band
tachment; Howard Shurter, director of the Veterans Service Agency; Charles Awkerman, local Marine Corps recruiter, and Quail.

It was agreed that the Marine Band should receive $1,800 if the concerts, one in the afternoon and another in the evening, were presented at the auditorium. If the band plays at the field house, however, it will receive $2,250. The fee charged by the band is on a sliding scale based on the seating capacity of the building.

The committee will announce prices for the performance at a later date.

May Play for Dedication
The possibility of combining the concert with dedication exercises for the field house was mentioned and received enthusiastic response. The field house is still under construction, however, and its completion by September 26 is entirely problematical. It was the consensus of the committee that local merchants should not be asked to support display advertisements for a concert program.

'President's Own'
The 50-piece band, the official White House band, known as "The President's Own," was established in 1798. It has supplied the music setting for every White House wedding and has accompanied the nation's stricken leaders to their final resting places. It has also expressed musically the greeting from this nation to visiting foreign dignitaries and royalty and for more than a century its summer concerts on the Capitol Plaza have been high lights in Washington's musical life.

Sousa Was Conductor
In its long history only 18 leaders have conducted the band, John Philip Sousa and Santelmann being the best known to the general public. Santelmann has headed the band since 1923.

Quail said that the band consisted of 50 pieces during the tour, although its full complement was 85, explaining that 35 members remained in Washington, D. C., to appear when required at official functions.

Insurance makes jewelry FUN!

"Nevertheless, there are reports that the bill is to be scuttled by the stock casualty insurance lobby," he said.

"The press that has been exerted on legislators is more intense than any of its kind in my memory," the Governor asserted. He contended that "not one valid reason has been advanced" to justify disapproval of the legislation.

In the Assembly, Republican A. Gould Hatch of Rochester said that "when the Governor says he has not heard a single valid reason against it, I wonder if he wants to admit there is any valid reason."

FEAR OF LOSS TAKES THE JOY OUT

Jewelry is for pleasure. If you own jewelry, make the enjoyment complete by insuring it—so you won't worry about losing it or having it stolen.

We would go so far as to say if you can't afford insurance, you can't afford jewelry.

Will Call Attorney General

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Dele.) said today he is going to turn over to the treasury and the attorney general any future facts he collects about tax frauds. The Delaware senator reiterated in an interview his determination not to accept membership on a finance investigating subcommittee because of a rule he said would permit the full committee to "stifle a report on any case." Williams pursued an investigation of tax frauds in the last session of Congress by periodic reports in the Senate on alleged irregularities he had dug up.

Says Morse 'Off Beam'

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) has run into a controversy with former General Electric Co. President Charles E. Wilson over what Morse called a proposal to sell the federal power projects to private utilities. Morse told the Senate yesterday backers of such a plan had induced Wilson—the one-time defense mobilization director, not the present secretary of defense—to give "a certain atmosphere of respectability" to the idea. Wilson, at his home in Scarsdale, N. Y., retorted that Morse "is just off his beam when he says I was 'induced' into making the proposal."

Tito Leaves With Pledge

London, March 21 (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia wound up a historic visit to Britain today with the declaration: "All that we have hoped for has been attained. We have reached full agreement." What he was taking back to Yugoslavia with him was a British pledge to stand by his Communist Balkan state in the event of aggression. The Red dictator who broke with Stalin's Russia in 1948 stood stiffly at attention as the London port's launch "Nore" drew away from Westminster pier. He wore full uniform with a light grey coat with scarlet lapels.

Chemical to Preserve Dead

New York, March 21 (AP)—Two Venezuelan doctors say they have a new chemical fluid to preserve dead bodies "indefinitely" and eliminate "putrefaction from the face of the earth." However, Dr. Charles A. Renouard, who operates a New York city school of embalmers and is regarded as the dean of American embalmers, said that while results of tests with the fluid were "amazing" he could not assert it would preserve the dead indefinitely.

8. An unexpected switch of signals by Dewey insured a legislative order to New York City to accept an independent transit authority with power to raise subway and bus fares or give up new state-approved taxing power. The amendments, bitterly assailed by the city administration were certain to be approved today.

In his outspoken plea for adoption of the compulsory auto insurance bill, Dewey said in a special message that the people, the press and many insurance companies favored the proposal.

Strongest Pressure

"Nevertheless, there are reports that the bill is to be scuttled by the stock casualty insurance lobby," he said.

"The press that has been exerted on legislators is more intense than any of its kind in my memory," the Governor asserted.

He contended that "not one valid reason has been advanced" to justify disapproval of the legislation.

In the Assembly, Republican A. Gould Hatch of Rochester said that "when the Governor says he has not heard a single valid reason against it, I wonder if he wants to admit there is any valid reason."

Thefts, Mischief Reported to Police

Three thefts and two cases of malicious mischief were reported to city police Friday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Jack Paikoff of 402 Albany avenue reported at 12:55 p. m. that she had just returned to her home after an absence of four days and found someone had torn up part of her macadam driveway.

Mrs. Virginia Burhans of 22 Shufeldt street reported at 5:25 p. m. that someone had cut the top of her 1949 convertible while it was parked in her driveway sometime Thursday night or Friday.

At 8:40 p. m. Gordon Orr of 674 Broadway reported the theft of $13.20 worth of groceries from his car which was parked on Green street near School 7. He said the theft occurred between 7:10 and 8:10 p. m.

U. S. Marine Band

tachment; Howard Shurter, director of the Veterans Service Agency; Charles Ackerman, local Marine Corps recruiter, and Quail.

It was agreed that the Marine Band should receive $1,800 if the concerts, one in the afternoon and another in the evening, were presented at the auditorium. If the band plays at the field house, however, it will receive $2,250. The fee charged by the band is on a sliding scale based on the seating capacity of the building.

The committee will announce prices for the performance at a later date.

May Play for Dedication

The possibility of combining the concert with dedication exercises for the field house was mentioned and received enthusiastic response. The field house is still under construction, however, and its completion by September 26 is entirely problematical. It was the consensus of the committee that local merchants should not be asked to support display advertisements for a concert program.

'President's Own'

The 50-piece band, the official White House band, known as "The President's Own," was established in 1798. It has supplied the music setting for every White House wedding and has accompanied the nation's stricken leaders to their final resting places. It has also expressed musically the greeting from this nation to visiting foreign dignitaries and royalty and for more than a century its summer concerts on the Capitol Plaza have been highlights in Washington's musical life.

Sousa Was Conductor

In its long history only 18 leaders have conducted the band, John Philip Sousa and Santelmann being the best known to the general public. Santelmann has headed the band since 1923.

Quail said that the band consisted of 50 pieces during the tour, although its full complement was 85, explaining that 35 members remained in Washington, D. C., to appear when required at official functions.

Insurance makes jewelry FUN!

FEAR OF LOSS TAKES THE JOY OUT

Jewelry is for pleasure. If you own jewelry, make the enjoyment complete by insuring it—so you won't worry about losing it or having it stolen.

We would go so far as to say if you can't afford insurance, you can't afford jewelry.
